Shelve Job Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A broad unemployment compensation bill to meet federal requirements was shelved temporarily in the Missouri Senate today.

The bill was laid over "for further study" by Sen. Edward T. Linehan, D-St. Louis, after labor forces lost two more rounds in their battle to waive the "waiting week" period — something they have sought for years.

Tuesday the Senate defeated, 16-17, a move by Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, to waive the waiting week after five weeks of unemployment benefits have been paid. Thus a jobless worker could get a double payment in the sixth week.

Today, on identical 14-18 votes, the Senate beat down Young's efforts to delete the waiting week after six weeks and then after six weeks and one day.

Earlier Young had withdrawn a point of order charging the bill was unconstitutional.

Young denied charges by business interests that this would be a "giveaway."

He said the unemployment reserve fund now has about $236 million and abolishing the waiting week would cost only about $2.4 million on the basis of 1970 payments.

Before defeating the waiting week deletion, the Senate voted to boost weekly benefits from the present maximum of $57 a week to $60 and by 1975 to $64.

A Senate change also would let a locked out employe continue to draw benefits if the National Labor Relations Board ruled the lockout to be an unfair labor practice.

Under the compliance bill, benefits could be paid for a maximum of 39 weeks instead of the present 26 weeks.

If the substitute bill is not passed, sponsors said employers would lose their present 2.7 tax credit at an estimated annual cost of $140 million.

Before getting involved in the unemployment compensation hassle, the Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill to prevent trespassing on public grounds or in public buildings, including the state capitol, college campuses and other such places.

The Senate accepted the House change and passed the bill, 27-0. Since it does not carry an emergency clause, which was defeated in the House, the bill would become effective Sept. 28 if signed by the governor.

Also sent to the governor were bills to:

Let Missouri-based trucks get their safety inspections in other states and tighten the inspection requirements on school buses.

Add the director of mining inspection to the Board of Rehabilitation and raise his salary about $2,500 a year.

House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House will take up a House version of a Senate-passed congressional redistricting bill when it returns after the Memorial Day weekend.

Tuesday, the House agreed to make the measure a special order of business at 3 p.m. Tuesday, June 1.

The House substitute, sponsors said, would protect all incumbent congressmen. They said the House proposal was agreeable to congressmen.

The Senate bill would have added white votes to the 1st District of Missouri's first Negro congressman, Rep. William L. Clay, D-St. Louis. It would also have added Republican voters to the 2nd District of Rep. James W. Symington, D-Clayton.

In other action Tuesday, the House killed a Senate highway safety proposal which would have made it illegal for any vehicle to travel a public road at less than 25 mph unless it displayed an orange-colored triangle warning sign on the rear.

Other Senate bills amended by the House before returning them to the Senate would provide a public trespassing law to cover any public property — the state capitol and grounds, state university and college properties and such. The House amendment broadens the Senate bill to extend the protection to all public properties.

The House tacked on an amendment to add the special license plate option to members of the legislature. The Senate bill would have limited the special plates to ham radio operators.

Earlier, the House killed a constitutional proposal which could have strengthened majority control of redistricting the Missouri House and let the legislature do the job if a governor-appointed bipartisan commission could not agree.

Opponents said it encouraged the commission not to agree. Others said no change was needed until the next census 10 years from now.

Nine Workers Slain

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The bodies of nine transient fruit workers, hacked with a machete or some kind of heavy knife, have been unearthed from the peach and plum orchards of this farming community, the county sheriff announced today.

Sheriff Whiteacre said Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor, was arrested shortly before dawn without resistance at a Richland Road home.

"He will be booked for nine counts of murder," the sheriff said of Corona. Whiteacre did not announce an alleged motive for the slayings.

Undersheriff Frank Cartoscelli said all the victims were transient fruit workers, ranging in age from 40 to 60 and that the times of the killings ranged from five or six weeks ago to sometime this week.

Corona was led into the county jail with his head covered by a sweater and coat, his hands manacled behind his back. He was under heavy guard, after his arrest in south Yuba City.

Two dozen deputies had raided the same house earlier only to find it unoccupied.

The bodies were found—eight Tuesday and one last Friday—in two local fruit orchards.

All were in shallow graves.

Cartoscelli said the weapon was a machete or a heavy knife.

"Most of the back of their heads were hacked up, and all were stabbed in the chest area. All were buried the same way," he said.

The first of the discoveries was made last Friday on the farm of Goro Kagehiro, who said he had noticed a hole about two-feet-deep and six-feet-long but thought nothing of it. Then he returned to find the hole filled up and thought someone had buried stolen property.

He called the sheriff's office. In subsequent digging they "uncovered a toe."

The body was identified as that of Kenneth Whitacre, 40, last address Alameda, Calif., across the bay from San Francisco.

About 1 p.m. Tuesday, on the Jack Sullivan Ranch about a half-mile from the first discovery, a hired hand was working a tractor in a field when he spotted a mound.

Recalling the earlier discovery, he thought it might be a grave. He told fireman Ray Duron, who called the sheriff's office.

The second body was discovered.

Searching further, deputies found four more graves close together three-quarters of a mile away. A half-mile in the opposite direction they found the other three.

Deputies said in each case the graves on the Sullivan land were about 3½-feet to 5-feet-deep and six-feet-long.

Late Tuesday night deputies dug for bodies beneath auxiliary powered lights in a drizzle briefly turned into a rainstorm. The area was cordoned off to preserve any evidence that might be found.

Yuba City is a farming community of 14,000, about 130 miles northeast of San Francisco.

In a news conference after the arrest, the sheriff said Corona has been in this country for some time but speaks little English. Whiteacre said he had to use an interpreter to communicate with the Mexican-American prisoner.

Whiteacre tentatively identified a second victim of the mass killings. He was Pete Peterson, 63, of nearby Marysville.

Probe Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department is investigating charges its Farm Labor Service knowingly breaks wage, health and civil rights laws in referring migrant workers to farm jobs.

A month ago several hundred farm workers and department employes filed 1,500 pages of documents they said proved the service was run for the good of growers—not the workers—and that it frequently violated the law.

"There is a real sincere dedication to get at the bottom of these charges," a Labor Department spokesman said Tuesday.

"We have established a special review task force to consider every complaint," he added.

The charges against FLS included accusations the service placed migrant workers on unsafe buses for lengthy journeys, recommended camps that violated state sanitation laws and minimum wage laws, and told migrants they could find work "around the corner" where unscrupulous employers waited.

Political Trip?

President Blasts North Hypocrisy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, making his first campaign-style trip of the year into the Deep South, has castigated some Northerners for a "double hypocritical standard" on race relations.

Appearing Tuesday in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., the state that calls itself the "Heart of Dixie," Nixon pictured himself as sympathetic toward the South while having "utter contempt" for racial attitudes of some in the North.

Police estimated at least 160,000 persons turned out to greet Nixon in Alabama's two largest cities. The welcome was as warm as the weather. Hostile chants were insignificantly few. Antiwar placards were far outnumbered by printed ones reading "Win in Vietnam."

Clearly, Nixon and his aides savored what they regarded as a political triumph on the home turf of Gov. George C. Wallace, the President's third-party opponent in 1968 and a potential 1972 foe.

Wallace was on hand in both cities with Nixon—terming the chief executive's presence "a signal honor"—but did not ride with the President in any of the day's motorcades. The White House apparently wanted it that way.

Nixon counted heavily on Southern support in 1968 and presumably will do so next year, although he has denied pursing a "Southern strategy."

Alabama, which sees presidents only infrequently—58 years ago in the case of Mobile and 50 years ago in Birmingham—turned out impressively biracial crowds. Blacks seemed as enthusiastic as whites in their response.

Nixon's most pointed language came at a private briefing session in Birmingham for publishers, editors and broadcasters from the 12 states of the Old Confederacy. He said:

"I know the difficult problems most of you in the Southern states have had on the school desegregation problem. I went to school in the South and so therefore I am more familiar with how Southerners feel about that problem than others ...

"I have nothing but utter contempt for the double hypocritical standards of Northerners who look at the South and point their finger and say, 'Why don't those Southerners do something about their race problem.'"

Nixon said the South in two years has undergone "a peaceful, relatively quiet, very significant revolution" in its schools. He went on:

"Today 38 per cent of all black children in the South go to majority white schools. Today only 28 per cent of all black children in the North go to majority white schools. There has been no progress in the North in the past three years. There has been significant progress in the South."

Gathering Dust

Prisoner Mail Is Ignored

PARIS (AP) — A week before Christmas, Merle E. Betterton of Knoxville, Iowa, sent a $15 check to an organization seeking better treatment for American prisoners in North Vietnam.

"I have a son in the Air Force," Betterton wrote, "and he suggested for this Christmas that all of our family donate to your organization instead of spending so much on ourselves."

The organization, the National League of Families of American Prisoners of War and Missing in Action, never opened Betterton's letter. It apparently was among thousands addressed to the league and brought to Paris by one of its delegates. Today the uncashed check lies in a cellar in a Paris suburb, among more than 20 tons of dust-covered letters and petitions from millions of Americans concerned about the prisoners held by Hanoi.

Emile Jean Coustie, director of the moving company which owns the cellar, was astonished to find the check in a letter opened at random. He estimated that more than three million letters and petitions were in his cellar, most of them in unopened envelopes.

"I couldn't possibly afford to have anyone search through all these letters," he said.

Coustie's warehouse in Pantin, a crumbling working-class district north of Paris, has become the main collecting point for the appeals brought or sent to Paris, usually addressed to the North Vietnamese delegation at the peace talks. The delegation systematically refuses to accept the appeals, and they usually end up in the Pantin cellar.

"It's becoming a bigger thing than I bargained for," Coustie said.

He first got involved with the appeals last year, when a group of Americans tried to dump several crates filled with petitions at the North Vietnamese delegation.

The French police guarding the building threatened to arrest the Americans for littering the sidewalk. They had no alternative but to load the crates back on their truck.

"At first, it was just bags and crates brought in by some group or other," Coustie said. "But now I am getting hundreds of letters from individual Americans, simply addressed to me as though I were an intermediary for dealing with the North Vietnamese."

"It's got so that I simply dump all the letters that come to me from the United States down here," Coustie said. "I just don't have the time to open them."

Money Is Granted To Camper Project

Federal and state funds totaling $45,580 have been made available to the Missouri Department of Agriculture to build a picnic pavilion and camping facilities to serve the increasing number of campers using the State Fair's two-year-old camping area west of Clarendon Road, Rep. William Randall said Wednesday.

Randall reported the release of a $22,790 federal grant Wednesday by the Department of Interior to the Department of Agriculture, sponsor of the project. The state matches the federal grant with general revenue funds, according to Agriculture Department officials.

The open-air pavilion would provide shelter and eating space for campers on the 60-acre tract, with its services available to Fair visitors and tourists the year around, and not just during the nine days of the Fair, according to the Agriculture Department.

The request for the grant was made in October when the Agriculture Department learned that more than 50,000 persons used the camping facility through the first nine months of 1970, compared to 30,000 for the same period in 1969.

The work will include an 80 by 104-foot shelter house, 330 feet of new sewer lines connected to existing lines and 170 feet of water lines connected to the present water system, it was reported.

About 150 feet of electrical underground lines and 192 electrical connections will also be included in the project, the department said.

Sammons and Buller, architects for the facility, said Wednesday plans would be completed and put out for bids shortly.

News of the project was recently preceded by reports from the state legislature that the State Fair's capital improvements budget would once again be greatly reduced due to general cutbacks throughout the state's capital improvements appropriation.

Cut from an original request of $2,806,100, only about $50,000 has been earmarked for improvements at the Fair this year. A similar situation evolved in 1970 when only $53,000 was made available from a request of more than $4 million.

Gives Water Projects Testimony

Two Sedalians and about 14 area residents appeared before Senate and House appropriations subcommittees Monday to urge that full consideration be given to fund requests for flood control projects in Missouri.

Chuck Lawrence, executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, and Kennie Miller, a Sedalia realtor, were among those who attended the hearing.

Lawrence said the primary objective of the local delegation was to recommend approval of fund requests made by the Water Resources Congress and the Mo-Ark Basins Flood Control and Conservation Association.

WRC and Mo-Ark have asked that $35,000,000 be appropriated for the Truman Dam project. President Nixon's recommendation for fiscal year 1972 totalled $17,400,000, Lawrence said. The last fiscal year appropriation came to $14 million.

According to Lawrence, "Our primary concern was the Truman project. We want to see it move out of the committees and onto the Senate aand House floors."

Information returned by Lawrence shows that the WRC and Mo-Ark groups are asking for $41,000 in general investigation funds for the Flat Creek flood control project south of Sedalia for fiscal year 1972. Nixon has recommended $40,000 for the work. Last year's appropriation gave the study $18,000.

In his testimony before the two committees, Lawrence said, "As you well know, this project (Truman Dam and Reservoir) has a far-reaching capability.

"In addition to being part of the comprehensive plan for the Missouri River Basin for flood control and providing a conservation pool for hydro-electric power, the project will control run-off from approximately 7,856 square miles of presently uncontrolled area," he said.

"With the continued accelerating technological advance, explosion of population, and the explosion of knowledge, even greater demands upon our society and economy will be forthcoming in the future," Lawrence said.

Others from this area who attended include Haysler L. Poague, Dr. Gus Wetzel, Rowland L. West, Joseph A. Simms, Robert Coleman, all of Clinton; Jack Weddle, Art Sindt, Kenneth Kammeyer, G. C. Hoehl, Joe Bockelman, all of Warsaw; Douglas McCain, Lincoln; and Glen F. Toalson and Cleo V. Cauthon, Osceola.

Receives Wide Coverage

Licking's Richard Ichord Rules Committee's Roost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accidents of alphabet and origin place a lawyer named Ichord from Licking, Mo., somewhere in the middle of both the roll of the House and the America it represents.

But Richard Howard Ichord is No. 1 when he presides over a House committee born 33 years ago today.

He sits in the head chair on the House Internal Security Committee, known in its original incarnation as the UnAmerican Activities Committee—seeker of subversives, condemner of Communists.

He retains that seat by being a Democrat, party of majority at the moment, and by expressing a conservative philosophy appealing to enough voters in his rural Missouri district to return to Washington every two years.

When he takes the floor, he charges, the press generally pays no heed.

But on his forum as chairman of one of the House's three permanent investigating panels, Ichord gets total coverage—extra press table for overflow crowds, battery of television and radio gear, packed hearing room, witnesses under oath.

An April 6 House speech—titled "Plans of Militant Antiwar Groups to Launch Massive Demonstrations in Washington, D.C., April 24 to May 5, 1971, Responsible Dissent or Communist-Inspired Propaganda?" — and last week's public hearings aimed at the same subject.

"This is one of the things that concerns me about this whole matter," Ichord said in an interview. He is concerned the speech "received little attention in the nation's press, not at all on the East Coast ... Whenever the committee takes some action that might appear to be adverse to the objective of the committee, that phone just rings off the hook from you fellows in the press ...

"And I think that's what happened in this respect, it received no publicity at all until the National Peace Action Coalition called a press conference for the purpose of denying the allegations that I made in the speech."

The National Coalition and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, which joined with the Mayday Collective as sponsors of antiwar protests here in late April and early May, are targets as Ichord's panel investigates alleged subversive influence among leaders of peace groups.

The panel took four days of testimony last week, set more for next month, and Ichord said—in light of evidence at the hearings—his April 6 speech was "the understatement of the year."

Ichord, who turns 45 next month, is the youngest chairman of a House committee. Since taking over leadership of the panel in 1969, when he was in only his fifth term in Congress, Ichord has been trying to change the committee's image.

"He wants to avoid the old HUAC circus," an aide said, referring to turbulent days when the committee tossed from its hearing rooms more unruly spectators than any other congressional panel.

During those years of headlines, HUAC delved into diplomacy, motion pictures, communications, education and labor. Its famous "pumpkin papers" hearings, involving Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers, helped project Richard M. Nixon of California, then a young congressman on the committee, into national prominence.

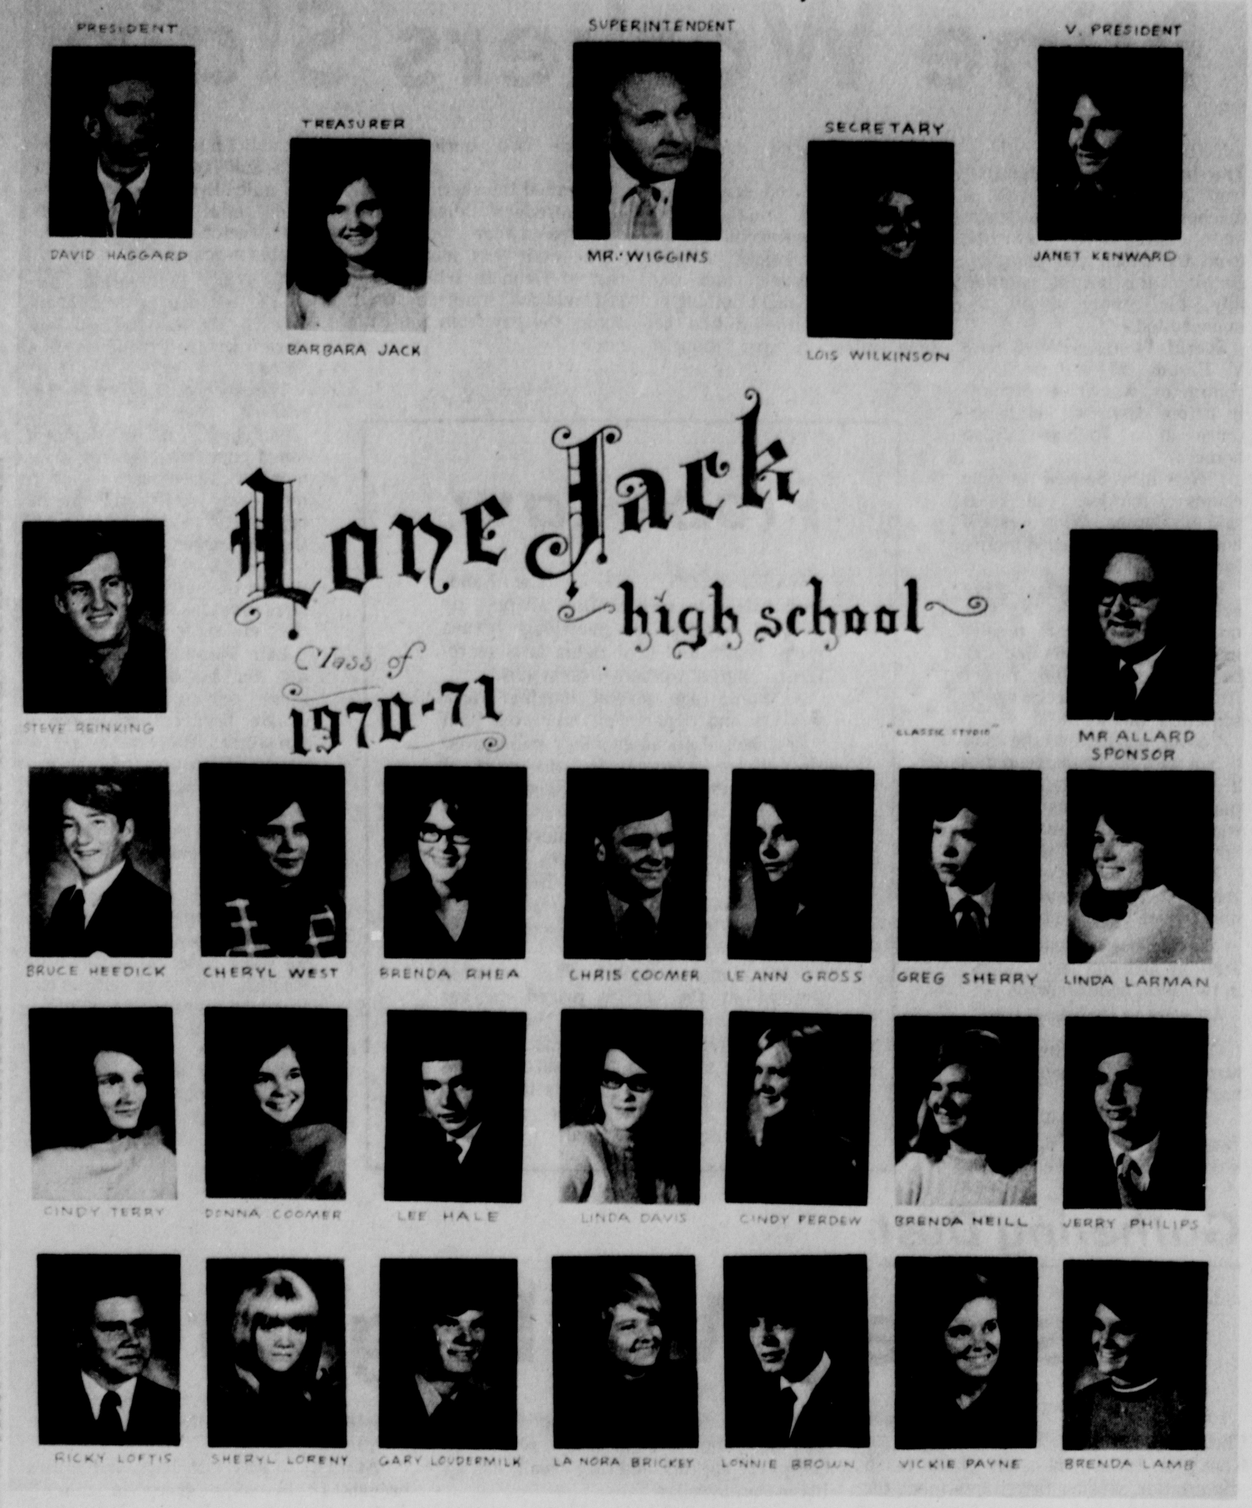

Resignation, death and defeat of fellow members left Ichord chairman—a swift move up for a man who, at 32, made history by becoming the youngest speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives.

As chairman, Ichord got the committee's name changed— and beat back efforts to abolish the panel outright or make it part of the Judiciary Committee. Aides say the lawyer from Licking is making several efforts to keep his committee procedure as close as possible to courtroom fairness.

Yet, the committee continues to attract criticism within Congress. In its current investigation, for example, congressional opponents accuse the panel of beginning a witch hunt and engaging in "the ultimate unAmerican activity."

During the first two years of work under Ichord's chairmanship, the committee investigated Students for a Democratic Society, Black Panther Party, Progressive Labor Party, and New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

The committee obtained a resident dissident this year in Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., the only Roman Catholic priest in Congress. Drinan, who wants to abolish the nine-member committee, contends it has "defamed and disgraced the House over the years."

Soldiers Not Ready For Combat

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials report American forces in Europe still are not fully combat ready despite improvement in weapons.

They have told Congress a tight budget and cutbacks in overall U.S. manpower have caused the situation in the main.

Nevertheless, the European command maintains a "very respectable fighting capability," Gen. David A. Burchinal, deputy U.S. commander in Europe, recently told the House Appropriations Committee.

This is only good enough to hold the line in early stages of an attack on Western Europe, he said. "We are dependent on rapid, timely and substantial augmentation from the United States if we are to undertake sustained combat operations."

Shortages of various kinds began cutting into the combat readiness of American forces in Europe, the United States and elsewhere in 1965 as the Vietnam war claimed first priority in men and equipment.

Although Pentagon leaders have stressed their intention the last two years to repair the deficiencies as the war winds down, Burchinal said: "Not all U.S. forces in Europe are currently considered fully combat ready."

"There are many reasons for this, including our share of reductions the services have been forced to make, lower assigned personnel strengths and skill levels . . . less money for training and exercises, and the priority of Vietnam requirements."

Cuts in the number of foreign nationals on U.S. military payrolls for economy reasons, Burchinal said, "has required use of military personnel for housekeeping duties, and a number of troops are thus diverted daily from their primary military duties."

Burchinal said critical skill shortages among petty officers in the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, plus a lack of readily available repair parts, "combine to degrade combat readiness of the fleet."

But he said the European command has been bolstered by what he called "qualitative improvements," including more advanced jet fighters and fighter bombers, helicopters and armored equipment modern antiaircraft missiles, and completion of several hundred shelters to protect warplanes on the ground.

Ford Wins Kentucky Primary

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford has achieved a surprisingly decisive victory over former Gov. Bert Combs in Kentucky's Democratic primary for governor and will face Republican Tom Emberton in November.

"The party's going to get together and we're going to win the statehouse," Ford, a 46-year-old Western Kentucky insurance man, said after Combs conceded Tuesday.

Combs, a 59-year-old former judge said "This is the end of the road for me politically."

He said he would return to law practice.

With 1,760 of 3,076 precincts counted unofficially, Ford had 137,630 votes to 103,778 for Combs.

The state administration is in the hands of the GOP for the first time in more than 20 years.

Emberton, 39, had only token opposition and the wholehearted support of Gov. Louie B. Nunn, who cannot succeed himself.

'Monsters' Terrorize Bootheel

By CAROL GOLDSMITH
Daily Dunklin Democrat

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — Arkansas officials have shed some light on those "monsters" terrorizing folks in the Missouri Bootheel.

It seems that some of the black bears imported by the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission are not content in their new environment and have taken to heading north, toward their native Minnesota and Canada.

But the malcontents apparently haven't gotten very far.

Sheriff Thad Shelly of Pemiscot County said last week that his office had gotten a large number of calls about what was referred to as a "monster" for lack of a better description.

Various reports had it ranging from seven to 12 feet tall and appearing in five different colors. "They describe it to me to resemble a big bear," Shelly said.

The bears came to Arkansas in 1960, as part of a restocking program when that state's bear population had dwindled to less than 50. Arkansas was once known as the Bear State.

The restocking started with 200 bears. The state's bear population—including those which have wandered to neighboring states—now stands at about 300. The bears are described as relatively harmless and won't attack "unless cornered, wounded, starving, that is, unless it's a mother bear with cubs," says Jay Kaffka, the Arkansas game division's information specialist.

The bears were expected to stay put in the wild, sparsely populated areas where they had been released, but older bears started migrating northward.

"Apparently, that dog food we put out as supplemental feed when they first arrived wasn't enough to keep them put," another game official said.

Bears released in the Ouchita Mountains of central Arkansas were spotted in southwestern Missouri, while those released in the northwest Arkansas Ozarks were spotted as far away as Walls, Miss., south of Memphis.

"The older ones were the biggest problem," said Bob Leonard, chief of the Arkansas agency. "It's like taking an old dog home with you. If you don't tie him up, he'll start to go home immediately."

Arkansas then switched tactics and started importing only young bears, which posed a new problem—their curiosity. Kaffka said he started getting reports that bears "were going swimming with people, climbing trees and telephone poles and investigating smokehouses."

Sometimes the bears are more frightened than the people who see them, Kaffka said.

"For example, up in northwest Arkansas, one of the bears apparently had wandered out of the woods and into a small town, where it climbed up on a man's house roof. Everybody in town turned out to see it, yelling and screaming at it. The bear died of a heart attack right on the spot. They scared him so bad."

The Pemiscot County sheriff's office said last week it had reports that a woman had been torn to shreds by one of the monsters, and another that a man was hospitalized with a heart attack caused by fright.

Sheriff Shelly said no such victims had been confirmed.

Mayor of Champ Challenges Scots

CHAMP, Mo. (AP) — Mayor Bill Bangert of the tiny industrial village of Champ has bet the Lord Mayor of Aberdeen, Scotland, a "wee dram" of scotch that he can lift the famed Dinnie Stones and carry the 775 pounds five yards.

Bangert, a 48-year-old, 280-pounder, said only two other men have been able to lift the stones in well over a century and only one of these two could carry them.

Bangert plans to accomplish the feat June 11 while he is in Scotland for the world cabar throwing championship.

Bangert set a world's record in the highland games at Alma, Mich., Saturday by tossing a 56-pound weight over a bar 16 feet, 1¾ inches above the ground and is warming up for his stone-lifting by a daily lift of 1,000 pounds at his home. He uses a harness around his waist rigged to a 150-year-old wagon wheel lifting platform.

It would seem Bangert would have little trouble tossing the cabar — a log that weighs about 125 pounds. But he did.

"I fell on my rear end in front of the queen," Bangert said, recalling his misstep and slip.

The Dinnie Stones — weighing 345 and 430 pounds — were counterweights on a hoist used in the construction of a bridge over the River Dee.

In 1855, the legendary Dinnie Donald Dinnie — 18-years old at the time — picked up both stones and moved them the width of the bridge — five yards — to get them out of the way.

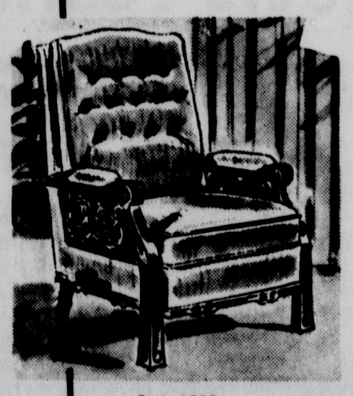

Bangert said only one other person has managed to lift the stones since that time. A Scot named Sid Strachen did it just recently. However, he said Strachen could not walk with the big boulders.

Big Bill says he knows he can lift the stones. "It's walking with them that's the problem, because at one time or other all the weight is on one foot," he said.

Bangert is a former shot put and discus champion and came within one bout of fighting the late heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano for the amateur heavyweight title.

Allen Durrill

Area Man Is Injured In Combat

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Spec. 4 Allen Durrill, 21, is presently on convalescent leave here after being seriously wounded in action in Vietnam.

After a short hospital stay in Japan, Durrill was transferred to Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington D.C., April 14.

After a 30 day stay with his wife, the former Gail Hollingsworth, also of Warsaw, Durrill will report back to Walter Reed June 2, for further treatment and surgery.

Durrill was wounded March 26, 1971, while on a combat patrol when a booby trap detonated, inflicting burns and shrapnel wounds to his face and chest. As a result of the wound, he suffered the loss of one eye, relatives reported.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Durrill, Green Ridge, Durrill was awarded the Purple Heart.

He is a 1967 graduate of Green Ridge High School and before his induction he was employed at Sedalia Rug Cleaners.

Hearnes Considers Petition Campaign

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A plan for a petition campaign to put a major highway bond issue on the ballot is being considered by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The governor intends to meet with the state highway commission June 10 or 11 to discuss the proposal to get some action on the stalled highway program.

The legislature has ignored Hearnes' proposal for a $475 million bond issue to finance a 12-year program of building 1,850 miles of divided four-lane highway.

The House passed a $600 million bond issue proposal but that plan is considered dead in a Senate committee. A 2-cent increase in the state's 5-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax was vetoed by the governor and the Senate refused to override the veto.

No Arrests Made After Man Is Shot

Calvin Marshall, 18, 107 East Morgan, was shot in the upper left thigh around 1:18 a.m. Wednesday. He was found by a passing motorist at the intersection of Jefferson and Lamine.

Marshall was admitted to Bothwell Hospital. His condition at noon Wednesday was reported as good by hospital officials.

In a statement to police, Marshall said he had been walking south on Lamine when the incident occurred. He said that earlier, when he was in the vicinity of Cooper and Pettis, he had heard something he assumed was a gunshot.

Marshall was found lying on the ground by Albert President, who was driving south on Lamine. President told police that he checked to see what was the matter and then took Marshall to Bothwell Hospital.

No arrests were made in the case.

State Fair Community College President Fred Davis was the featured speaker at the Noon Optimist meeting Tuesday.

Davis gave a talk and showed slides about his recent trip to Europe. He outlined the educational organization of several European countries, pointing out differences and similarities to the U.S.

Harold Hughes, of National Life Insurance Co., was the guest of Fred Biggs.

The invocation was given by Fred Arbogast.

Big Task Foreseen By Abrams

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said today a "herculean effort" is needed to keep U.S. troops as alert as they need to be during the American disengagement from the Vietnam war.

"An atmosphere and climate begin to prevail and with it comes a certain amount of laxity," the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam told newsmen. "It just requires a lot of attention, a herculean effort to keep alertness up."

Abrams said the same situation prevailed near the end of World War II and the Korean war.

He declined to discuss the rocket attack last Friday that killed or wounded about 60 American troops crowded into one bunker at Firebase Charlie 2 below the demilitarized zone.

"I wasn't there," said the general. "I shouldn't try to kibitz what went on."

He also refused to confirm or deny reports that he reacted with great anger at a staff meeting last Saturday because so many men had taken refuge in one bunker. One officer who attended the meeting said Abrams "hit them with all eight stars," a reference to his four-star rank, four stars on each side of his collar.

"That's speculative," the general said today.

Abrams was interviewed after a ceremony at nearby Long Binh at which Maj. Gen. Jack J. Wagstaff took over the 3rd Regional Assistance Command from Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison. The latter is taking command of U.S. forces in Europe.

On the battlefront, South Vietnamese forces claimed 48 North Vietnamese killed in a clash seven miles southwest of Charlie 2 and said they also captured 98 122mm rockets, with which the enemy pounded bases along the DMZ last week. Seven South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese government announced that it would join in a 24-hour cease-fire around the seaward end of the DMZ on June 4, the condition set by North Vietnam for acceptance of 570 sick or wounded prisoners of war the South Vietnamese offered on April 29 to release.

It will be the biggest prisoner release of the war.

The South Vietnamese announcement called on Hanoi to "respond with some corresponding gesture of good will." North Vietnam has admitted holding 339 American POWs, most of them pilots, and the Saigon government says Hanoi also has more than 3,000 South Vietnamese prisoners.

The prisoners are to be transferred from unarmed allied ships to unarmed North Vietnamese ships at the 17th parallel, which divides the DMZ. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the Americans would "cooperate in every way."

Fire Station Construction On Schedule

Fire Chief Emmet Vaught said Wednesday that work on Sedalia's third fire station on West 16th is proceeding on schedule.

Vaught said that the roof of the structure was being worked on this week. Two innovations make the station different from the present two facilities. "This new station will have an office and a dayroom," he said.

Vaught said the estimated date of completion for the building is Aug. 1. He said 10 men will be hired to man the new station, raising the number of city firemen 30 to 40.

When the fire station is completed, according to Vaught, a 1954 Seagrave fire truck will be the only piece of fire apparatus there until the city acquires more equipment.

Vacation Loan Program For Library Books

The Sedalia Public Library has launched a new "vacation loan" program which allows patrons to check books out for as much as a month at a time.

Don Morton, librarian, reported that the plan permits adults to borrow five novels or non-fiction work for a month, rather than the usual two weeks. Borrowers are asked to indicate whenever books are to be checked out under the program.

Morton said the library will reserve the right to issue certain popular works or recent books for a shorter time. Children's books may also check out five volumes.

The extended loan program will be continued through Labor Day, Morton said.

Youth Is Injured

Nicholas Pryce Fowler, 19, 1321 State Fair Blvd., the operator of the motorcycle shown here, was injured when the machine collided with a 1968 Buick (background) driven by Gilbert V. Jones, 76, 1401 West Fourth, at Broadway and Warren late Tuesday afternoon. Police said Fowler was thrown over the top of the car after the collision and landed 21 feet from the initial point of impact. He was admitted to Bothwell Hospital and suffered facial lacerations and abrasions. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Circuit Court

Roger McGinnes, 1812 South Kentucky, was sentenced by Pettis County Circuit Judge Frank Meyer, Wednesday to five years' imprisonment in custody of the State Department of Corrections, Jefferson City, after he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of second degree burglary and stealing.

The charge stems from the Oct. 17, 1970, break-in at the East End Tavern, Fifth and Engineer, in which a quantity of liquor and beer was taken.

McGinness was given credit for the seven months he spent in Pettis County jail.

Sheriff's Report

Larry Dean Miller, 1524 East 24th, and John Edward Taylor, 508½ South Engineer, both charged with second degree burglary and stealing, will be brought to Pettis County from Ft. Collins, Colo., within 10 days, Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Wednesday.

The charge stems from the May 18 theft of $885 worth of coins, currency and merchandise from the Hughes Apco service station, 808 East Broadway.

According to Fairfax, Miller and Taylor were arrested Saturday in Loveland on suspicion of shoplifting. They are being held in the Laramie County Jail, Ft. Collins.

The two men have waived extradition, Fairfax said.

Mrs. Opal Hugelman, city collector, said that more than 4,500 city stickers had been sold so far, representing slightly more than 50 per cent of those stickers to be sold to Sedalia residents.

Mrs. Hugelman said earlier there will be no grace period after the June 1 deadline this year.

"Our office will be closed Saturday and on the following Monday in observance of Memorial Day. Persons who want to get their stickers before the deadline have up until 5 p.m. next Tuesday," Mrs. Hugelman said.

Nominations To Academies Are Completed

Bill Hall, Sedalia industrial development director, said Wednesday that 13 nominations have been made to the Academy of Ambassadors and six manufacturing concerns in the area were nominated for the Academy of Excellence. The nomination-time is now closed, he said.

Hall said that five business people will be named to the Academy of Ambassadors and three manufacturers will be selected to the Academy of Excellence.

The awards are made, according to Hall, to recognize individual and business involvement in the economic well-being of Sedalia.

The award certificates will be presented at the annual Industrial Appreciation Banquet at the Holiday Inn at 6:30 p.m. June 10.

MoPac Charges Amtrak Failure

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Missouri Pacific Railroad official said today the passenger train schedule for Missouri drawn up by Amtrak fails to make connections.

H. E. Handley, superintendent of the northern division of Missouri Pacific, said that line's train No. 16 is scheduled to leave Kansas City daily at 5:30 a.m. But, he said, the connecting eastbound Santa Fe train does not arrive in Kansas City until 5:35 a.m.

"This is the schedule the Amtrak operating department in Washington has given us," Handley said, "and we are living up to it."

He said the Missouri Pacific train has been leaving Kansas City on time at 5:30, five minutes before the Santa Fe train arrives.

Montrose Youth Killed in Crash

MONTROSE, Mo. (AP) — Stephen Daniel Beber, 16, of Montrose was killed Tuesday in a collision between his station wagon and a Katy freight train in Montrose.

Students Come To Assistance Of Dog Family

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CALHOUN — The welfare of a family of eight abandoned dogs has been placed in jeopardy due to the closing of the Pleasant View School here for summer vacation.

A black Labrador retriever and its seven puppies were found abandoned on the school lawn one morning in April. Since that time, the dozen students of Mrs. Lora Bell have sustained the canine family with bits of food from their lunchboxes.

The children also prepared the dogs a bed of boards and rug padding scraps under a tree in the school yard, Mrs. Bell said.

"As soon as school is out," she said, "the mother will lose her food supply and the puppies may very well starve. They need homes immediately and I thought something should be done, if possible, to see that they get them."

Anyone wishing to supply a home for the mother or any of the seven puppies, according to Mrs. Bell, may call her at 647-3265, Windsor, or Mrs. Peggy Hart, Route 1, Box 24, Windsor, 647-5701.

A public meeting to discuss the extension of a road leading to the proposed Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system's MissilepSite Radar near Hughesville will be held at the Pettis County Courthouse at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The proposed road would run north from Dresden for about 4.5 miles to the MSR site, it was reported.

The purpose of the meeting is to outline the planned improvements and their impact on the surrounding area.

Unusual Greeting Confuses Women

Dear Ann Landers: Do I lack a sense of humor? Is there something wrong with me that a small incident of no consequence bothered me for hours?

While browsing in a book store, I encountered a woman I had not seen for months. We were never close friends but we met frequently at civic functions. She was always pleasant. The woman greeted me with a look of horror and disbelief. Finally she shouted, "My God! You're alive! I heard you had died!"

I stood there, dumbfounded. She realized she had startled me with that odd greeting and attempted to recoup by trying to remember who it was who told her, etc. etc. The more she talked, the worse it became. Finally I mumbled, "Nice to have seen you." and walked off. Why was I so bothered? What should I have said? Thanks for your help. — Alive And Well in Wichita Falls.

Dear Alive: You were bothered because the thought of death bothers most people. But I'll bet the lady with the loose lip was more bothered than you. You might have made a joke of it and said, "Like most rumors — it was grossly exaggerated," and changed the subject.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 19 and have been married for nearly two years. My husband and I got along beautifully until six months ago. Suddenly he became indifferent. He doesn't talk to me and when I ask him what's wrong he says, "Nothing. Don't nag me."

For the last year all he seems interested in is having a baby. I want a baby eventually, but I'm not sure I am ready for motherhood yet.

Do you think if I had a baby it would help our marriage? Right now I am thinking about divorce. My husband hasn't spoken to me for a week. Please tell me what to do. — Biloxi, Miss.

Dear Lox: The last thing you need is a baby. I suggest counseling to help you determine whether or not your marriage is salvageable before you bring a child into the world. I hope the 17-year-olds out there who think marriage is such a ball will read your letter twice.

Dear Ann Landers: A while back you printed a letter from "Mr. Haddit" who proceeded to tell the world how he handled folks who just happened to be in the neighborhood and decided to drop in. "Mr. Haddit" had a sign made and he mounted it directly above the front door. It read: "IF YOU ARE UNINVITED AND UNEXPECTED YOU ARE ALSO UNWANTED. GO AWAY." I wish I had the courage to do the same.

I am a freelance writer who works at home. Somehow people don't believe writing is work. They can't understand that a creative person can sit for hours without writing a single sentence then suddenly rockets go off in his head and he must translate them into words immediately or they are lost. I can't tell you how many times, after a dry spell, I have just begun to connect — a car drives up and unexpected company appears. The creative mood slips away as the guest jabber on and on — and I do a slow burn.

As I said, Ann, I don't have the nerve to hang the sign, but if you will print my letter I promise to have it framed and mounted over the doorbell — Haddit, Jr.

Dear Jr.: Here it is. Call the framer and good luck.

Have Memorial Program For Cancer Fight

Mrs. Paul Albin, 1807 South Lafayette, chairman of the Pettis County division of the American Cancer Society, Wednesday urged Sedalia and area residents to participate in the Society's Memorial Program.

She said the approach of Memorial Day made the appeal for donations more timely. The Memorial Program, although a part of the year-long crusade against cancer, is separate.

Mrs. Albin explained that anyone participating in the program could specify in whose name the memorial donations are being made. Each contribution will be acknowledged, she said.

Donations may be made directly to Mrs. Albin, who will forward them to the American Cancer Society.

Hot Line

Hot line answers questions, looks into complaints, solves problems and generally serves readers and protects their interests. Write Hot Line, The Sedalia Democrat-Capital, Seventh and Massachusetts, Sedalia, Mo. 65301, or call 826-1000 between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. Hot Line will appear as often as necessary to serve our readers.

All calls and letters to Hot Line must include name, address and phone number of inquirers. Names will not be used but are needed should additional information be required to answer questions.

Q — Why aren't there arrows on the pavement or electrical signals for traffic on 16th wanting to turn left onto Limit? — P. K.

A — Traffic engineers for the Missouri State Highway Commission, which built and regulates the intersection, indicated that the installation of traffic control devices is based on how heavily a given street is used. In the case of the 16th and Limit intersection, it was determined that there was not enough traffic on 16th crossing Limit to warrant the devices you mentioned. The Highway Commission assured Hot Line that periodic checks are made of traffic flows at major intersections and adjustments in traffic control devices are made as needed.

Q — Are police officials aware of the dangerous intersection at north Ohio and Pettis? Cars going east and west on Pettis have to pull their cars almost into the oncoming lane of traffic to see what is coming from the north and south because workers at Lamy's Manufacturing Co. park within five to six feet of the stop sign. What can be done about it? — N. G.

A — Police Chief William Miller told Hot Line that your complaint has been under investigation by the Traffic Advisory Committee and has been taken under advisement. "We hope to come up with a solution to the problem in the near future," Miller said. The situation is admittedly dangerous and should be corrected, but there is no ordinance on the city's books now which forbids parking in the area. Miller recommended that, until the problem is solved, motorists use extreme caution in the Lamy area, especially during the noon and at 5 p.m. when most workers are discharged.

Q — I would like to know why there was no credit given to the few Smith-Cotton children who picked up trash all day Saturday, May 8? I would also like to know why the residents living on the newer portion of West Main are allowed to park in the street when all of them have concrete driveways? — E. F. T.

A — The Sedalia Democrat-Capital published a story about the trash pick-up on May 3 and another, equally extensive, story on May 5. It was felt that this would be adequate advance publicity. However, on May 8 it was learned that many adults apparently had not co-operated with the students' efforts and that the pick-up was moved to Thompson Blvd. A photographer was dispatched, but the small amount of rubbish collected had already been moved. Hot Line agrees that the work done by these students is commendable and should have been more widely acknowledged.

As for your second question, there is no city ordinance forbidding residents to park on streets if there are no "no-parking" zones involved. City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said on-street parking is permitted on West Main Street because present traffic patterns are light enough to permit it. Should this situation change, however, it would be up to the Traffic Advisory Committee to advise the City Council to change the street to a four-lane thoroughfare and ban parking.

School's Out!

With school closed for the summer, several Green Ridge youths are finding they have plenty of leisure time on their hands. Here 15-year-old Lonny Coke, who has just entered the 10th grade, seems to enjoy popping his bicycle up and down Green Ridge streets in apparent elation over the fact that summer vacation has arrived. Ban Rejected By Church

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church rejected a proposed ban on providing additional church money for Angela Davis' legal defense Tuesday, but approved a motion questioning the propriety of a $10,000 contribution already made.

Delegates at the church's General Assembly defeated the ban by a 330-319 vote. The tally on the question of propriety was 347-303.

By a vote of 364-299, delegates turned down a complex measure that would have limited nearly all legal defense contributions to $1,000 per case.

Miss Davis is on trial in California on charges of conspiracy, murder and kidnaping in connection with a courtroom shootout that ended in the death of a judge and three men.

Earlier the council disclosed it had donated $25,000 in legal aid and bail money for the "Black Panther of NYC 21" litigation and $15,000 for the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. The church's emergency fund for legal aid totals $100,000.

William P. Thompson, of Wayne, Pa., was re-elected stated clerk, the church's chief administrative officer, at the morning session.

Passes Sales Tax

OLIVETTE, Mo. (AP) — A one-cent local sales tax was approved by a vote of 514-330 Tuesday.

The proposal, which needed a simple majority for passage, was rejected in the April 6 election.

Farm Roundup

Brisk Foreign Trade On Livestock Products

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States does a brisk business with foreign countries in selling and buying meat and other livestock products, but that trade falls far short of being the money maker of other sales such as grain, cotton and oilseeds.

According to an Agriculture analysis of calendar 1970 exports, when sales of U.S. farm products hit a record $7.2 billion, exports of meat, livestock and meat products totaled $574 million.

But imports of similar products, mainly the quota-regulated meat from Australia, New Zealand and other suppliers, totaled nearly $1.3 billion, or a trade deficit for those items of about $726 million.

That is a restricted picture, however, because over-all U.S. farm exports last year exceeded agricultural imports by more than $1.5 billion.

Both the meat export and import values for 1970 were records. Exports included $244 million, nearly half the total worth of tallow, greases and lard. Hides and skins were worth $144 million.

Other products and their value export last year included: variety meats $70 million; red meat $61 million; and live animals $33 million, according to USDA reports.

On the import side, by far the largest value involved meat (mostly beef and veal) worth $988 million; live animals $126 million; and wool and mohair $88 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the average price paid dairymen for Class I or bottling type milk in early May was $7.14 per hundredweight in the major markets, three cents more than in April and 25 cents more than a year earlier.

The average retail price in the major cities was 57.9 cents per half gallon, a dip of one-tenth of a cent from April but eight-tenths of a cent more than in May 1970, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Home-delivered milk was 66.7 cents per half gallon, up four-tenths of a cent from April and 1.9 cents more than a year earlier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkeys have been named to a feature spot on the Agriculture Department's "Plentiful Foods" list for July, along with eggs, fresh vegetables and other products in large supply.

The monthly list is issued to help call attention to shoppers and retailers of the farm products most in abundance, particularly those needing a marketing push to help reduce the supply.

Turkey stocks held in cold storage are heavier than a year ago, and July marketings by farmers are expected to be larger than a year earlier.

Some 73 million all-aluminum cans were returned to can reclamation centers for recycling during the first three months of 1971, reports the Aluminum Association.

J. M. Palmer, 74, runs the only barber shop in Green Ridge, where he and his wife, Verna, have lived for 50 years and "had the barber shop all that time." Now as he enters the second half century of his career, Palmer decided to move his shop across the street into the building just vacated by Mrs. Judy Chaney who is now working at a Sedalia beauty salon. Palmer also has been selling insurance for the past 25 years and thinks clipping hair is "a pretty good way of contacting people." He was quick to point out, though, that he does not "bear down too much" on his captive audience.

'Hide' Cosmetics' Ingredients

By PETER WEAVER

Many readers have written asking what chemicals are in specific brands of eye make-up, face powder or body lotion. They're worried about skin and eye irritations.

It's little wonder. Some allergists and dermatologists have estimated that as many as 20 million Americans are sensitive to products that touch their skin.

When the cosmetics companies are asked what's in their products, the standard line is: "We can't give out the ingredients because they're trade secrets."

This "trade secrets" line is just so much hair wash. I learned that, with a little sleuthing and a lot of patience, you can uncover the ingredients in many products from lipsticks to lotions.

A massive listing of common household products and their ingredients (including hundreds of cosmetics) can be found in the book "Clinical Toxicology of Commercial Products." Poison control centers, some hospitals, medical schools and public libraries have it.

If the local Sedalia Public Library doesn't have this key book, your librarian can order it from: Williams & Wilkins Co.; Baltimore, Md. 21202. The price is $24.50. Here are just a couple of the many cosmetics it lists:

— INTIMATE hand and body lotion by Revlon — contains triethanolamine, stearic acid, lanolin, glycerin and preservatives. Dermatologists and allergists I interviewed found nothing particularly startling in this concoction. A very small percentage of the population might be sensitive to certain lanolin derivatives. A greater number of others are sensitive to certain preservatives.

The "Handbook of Non-Prescription Drugs," published by the American Pharmaceutical Association, says: "The use of glycerin as a moisturizing agent is doubtful ... When the humidity is low, it will extract moisture from the skin (moisturizers aren't needed when humidity is high)."

— ABANO bath oil, by Chesebrough Ponds (Matchabelli Division) — contains essential oils, volatile terpenes, aromatics, esters, citrus oils, perfume oils. The doctors say that it's interesting to note "what's not in there," so a patient who is sensitive to, say, antibacterial agents such as hexachlorophene, can use the product with confidence.

One of the drawbacks with this toxicology book is the fact that not all cosmetics products are listed, especially the more recent market entries. Some of the unlisted products, however, can be found in the card files in the 600 poison control centers around the country. The detailed product information comes from the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers (Washington, D. C.).

Some top doctors in the skin field told me they can get the ingredients of almost any cosmetics product from the top companies' medical directors. In fact, some companies will even send samples of chemicals they use so patch tests can be made on patients.

Cosmetics companies belonging to the Cosmetic, Toiletry and Fragrance Association have recently agreed to submitting product ingredients to the Food and Drug Administration on a "top secret" basis. The reason given for the secrecy? You guessed it: to "protect trade secrets."

Rep. Leonor Sullivan (D-Mo.) has introduced many bills aimed at requiring cosmetics companies to list ingredients and to have their products tested and cleared by the FDA before they're sold to the public. "As it stands now," Mrs. Sullivan says, "the public serves as the guinea pig." Normally, the FDA will only consider recalling cosmetics from the market after complaints come in.

By the way, you can get a listing of all the recent cosmetics products recalls by writing: Food and Drug Administration; Office of Consumer Affairs; Rockville, Md. 20852. You can get lists of cosmetics brand names and their ingredients for deodorants, antiperspirants and suntan products by sending in for the pamphlets: "Sun & Your Skin" (20 cents) and "Deodorants & Antiperspirants" (25 cents). The address: American Medical Association; 535 N. Dearborn St.; Chicago, Ill. 60610. AMA's Committee on Cutaneous Health and Cosmetics provided the technical information.

With so much information on cosmetics available to, and through, specialists, one wonders why all the secrecy. Maybe the fact that most cosmetics are made of the same ingredients is the big secret. If the buyer knew that the $2.50 brand of lotion and the 85-cent brand both have the same ingredients listed — why pay more?

60 Minutes Examines Tankers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS's "60 Minutes" usually manages to have an off-beat picture story in its biweekly program. Tuesday night it was a report on the little understood tanker business and the owners who, if calculated risks work out, make huge profits hauling oil around the world.

The pictures of the mammoth tankers were impressive, and Mike Wallace's commentary on the business intriguing.

There was also an impressive introduction of a new face on the antiwar scene, former Navy Lt. John Kerry. He is the 27-year-old Yale man who recently made a big impression on Washington with his impassioned testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and as organizer of a demonstration in which disabled veterans of Vietnam threw away their medals in protest against the continuation of the war. Kerry, who hinted at political ambitions, said frankly the medal-throwing was a device to attract coverage by the electronic media.

The program wound up with an interview with former presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy. He spoke of his interest in a third political party, but maintained firmly that he has not decided whether to try for the presidency again in 1972.

The program may get a little out of balance with its interest in national politics and war, but it is still a very bright spot in the schedule.

Public broadcasting stations which seem to be just as interested in pumping out fresh programs in warm weather as in cold, are a particular boon to the bored viewer these nights.

There are a number of programs, not always carried as network broadcasts, that circulate among the educational stations and deserve more attention than they get. One, in particular, is Robert Cromie's "Book Beat."

Cromie, book critic for a Chicago and a Washington newspaper, is one television interviewer who really reads his guests' books. His style is easy, literate and brings out the best even in nervous authors.

On a recent program, Cromie was discussing "Defending the Environment" with its author, Prof. Joseph N. Sax of the University of Michigan law school. The book was a report on legal action by citizens groups and others in efforts to protect and preserve areas of land, seashore and water as part of the public trust. A dull subject? Not at all under the gentle prodding from Cromie. Sax told details of one fascinating case after another.

It was a solid half hour of good talk and altogether refreshing.

Fund Drive May Reach 1971 Goal

Donations to the Pettis County Cancer Society, based on drives in Sedalia and the county, totalled $8,896.79 as of Tuesday.

The goal for this year is $10,000 and is expected to be reached with little difficulty. Mrs. Keith Anderson, headquarters chairman, said the city and county drives were highly successful. "This was the first time that we had conducted an organized drive in the county and we were surprised and gratified at the wonderful response from county residents," she said.

A door to door canvass of Sedalia May 3 by 500 volunteers earned $5,453.33. The figure was $235 more than last year, Mrs. Anderson said. The county canvass earned $2,392.02.

Mrs. Anderson said the cancer crusade will continue until Aug. 1. At that time, all of the money in a savings account at Third National Bank will be forwarded to the state headquarters at Jefferson City.

All together, over 673 volunteers in the city and county participated in what was called the best drive to date.

Handling the efforts of the cancer society's multiple drives were: Jim Callis, county chairman; Mrs. William Eschbacher, city chairman; and Ned Monsees, rural crusade chairman.

Elwood Mather, 2201 South Missouri, acts as treasurer for the Pettis County Cancer Society.

Various Anti-War Groups Gain New Sense Of Continuity, Purpose

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the spring peace offensive quickly ran out of gas, the antiwar movement was left with the continuing organization it had been lacking.

The movement is by no means unified; feuding among major peace groups is intense. But there is a new aura of permanency about the organizations behind the movement, attributable in part to the infighting itself. Mostly it results from an amerging new methodology of protest.

In the past, organizations that mounted the big efforts came and went with events. The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, for example, existed to create one massive demonstration here in the fall of 1969.

The basic ancestor of Vietnam war opposition groups was the National Mobilization Committee, which sponsored antiwar demonstrations in New York, San Francisco and Washington in 1967 and at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968.

But the Mobe faded away after the 1968 elections when President Nixon unfolded his promised plan to end the war and basked in a brief honeymoon with the electorate.

It was the Moratorium Committee that started things up again with a massive march and rally here Oct. 15, 1969, and auxiliary events across the nation.

When the movement decided to do it again one month later, the New Mobilization Committee was born to sponsor several days of protest in the capital, culminating in another mass march and rally Nov. 15, 1969. It followed with a rally here May 9, 1970, in response to the Cambodian excursion and deaths of students at Kent State University and Jackson State College.

The May 9 demonstration led directly to the split which brought the current structure of competing organizations. A dissident element within the movement wanted to employ civil disobedience, creating incidents and confrontation. But Trotskyite socialist elements who opposed this approach carried the day.

By controlling the parade marshals and demonstration site selection, the Trotskyites and others who shared their view of peaceful demonstrations thwarted the more militant participants.

The long but shaky relationship between the two camps turned to a formal split.

The Trotskyites and their friends met in Cleveland last June 19-21 and formed the National Peace Action Coalition with the sole purpose of opposing the war. The coalition shuns other issues which might dilute the peace movement; is devoted to large rallies and marches and preaches nonviolence.

One week after the birth of the coalition, the radical opposition met in Milwaukee and sought a total realignment of the movement. It was largely the old Mobe and the New Mobe, and the offspring was the Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression.

The Milwaukee gathering produced two dramatic developments; an antiwar effort embracing causes of the black and the poor, and a doctrine of "militant, nonviolent" civil disobedience.

But here a third wing of the movement began to stray from the fold, with Rennie Davis of the Chicago 7 leading the way. Davis wanted more than just civil disobedience of the sit-in type. He had a plan to shut down the government by crippling Washington commuter traffic.

Davis' plan got a cool hearing at the Milwaukee meeting, and again last August at the National Student Association Congress in St. Paul.

The NSA refused to endorse Davis' plan outright but committed itself to massive nonviolent action including civil disobedience.

The same NSA meeting produced a major feature of the current movement, the People's Peace Treaty. On the mandate of the convention, NSA representatives went to Saigon and Hanoi and "negotiated" a peace treaty with Vietnamese students.

The treaty was a prominent part of the spring offensive, with much of the effort aimed at ratification of the treaty by citizens at large and Congress in particular.

After the NSA contingent returned from Vietnam with its treaty, a conference to plan for "ratification" was held at Ann Arbor, Mich., in February. There, Davis made his pitch to a meeting of Students and Youth for a People's Peace and finally got a following. The Mayday Tribe was formed.

It was Davis' Mayday forces—one contingent of People's Coalition—that tried to stymie Washington traffic May 3 and 4 in a week that saw 12,000 arrests.

Meanwhile, the Mobe people met again Jan. 8-10 in Chicago and became the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice.

By this time planning had begun for the spring demonstrations, and the dichotomy grew. The National Coalition wanted a joint rally May 2.

The National Coalition held out for April 24 and won, with People's Coalition joining in as a grudging cosponsor. The march and rally, which went off without trouble, drew a crowd estimated from 185,000, by the police, up to 500,000 by the sponsors.

Then the People's Coalition did its thing for a week, featuring sit-ins at various government agencies across town. Most of the participants were arrested, but there was no violence.

The next week belonged to Mayday. There were mass arrests, although the demonstrators failed in their effort to keep commuters away from their government jobs.

Now, the postmortems on three weeks of mixed results are increasingly bitter. The official newspaper of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party recently called the Mayday tactics "tantrums."

"Small civil-disobedience actions are easily dispersed, represent very little political power, and do not offer an avenue of expression and action for the masses of American people who oppose the war or may be convinced to oppose the war," the newspaper said.

The more militant wing of the movement, from the People's Coalition to its offspring, Mayday, only tolerates the National Coalition's mass gatherings, viewing marches and rallies as cathartic for the participants but ineffective in ending the war.

But even within the more activistic element there is some disagreement by those who think even civil disobedience should be tempered so as not to offend the general public. Mayday types generally don't think that's a very important consideration.

If the internal disagreement weren't enough, the movement is under investigation by the House Internal Security Committee whose chairman contends they are under Communist influence.

The Justice Department has initiated a grand jury investigation of the movement leadership. Abbie Hoffman, an associate of Davis, a leader of the Yippies and another of the Chicago defendants, has been indicted on charges of promoting and carrying out a riot. Bradford Lyttle Jr., a People's Coalition coordinator, is accused of assault.

Davis and Fellow Mayday leader John Froines, also a defendant in Chicago, are charged with conspiring to violate the civil rights of commuters during the Mayday actions and are being held for grand jury action.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the Internal Security Committee, has pointed to membership on the People's Coalition coordinating committee of Sidney Peck, a sociology professor who has been tagged in congressional records as a former Communist party leader in Wisconsin, and Gilbert Green and Jarvis Tyner, identified as members of the American Communist Party's National Committee.

Actually both coalitions are broad umbrella organizations with a wide divergency of membership and have never denied having socialist or Communist members.

NPAC's chief constituency is drawn from the Socialist Workers Party, the Young Socialist Alliance and the heavily Trotskyite Student Mobilization Committee.

People's Coalition's chief leaders include Peck, David Dellinger, another of the Chicago 7 and a lifelong pacifist crusader, Lyttle and Davis.

Although the devastating arrest toll of Mayday blunted the offensive, all are concentrating on a broad range of future events instead of the one-shot activities of the past.

Carlton Wins Eighth

Royals Sock Chisox, 8-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Royals rode the power hitting of Gail Hopkins and Paul Schaal to an 8-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night while Steve Carlton pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Ed Krikpatrick singled in the Royals' first run. Schaal doubled in another and Hopkins hit his third homer of the year to make it 3-0. Schaal's home run in the seventh made it 4-2.

Chicago's Jay Johnstone homered in the bottom of the seventh, but the Royals scored four runs in the ninth on RBI singles by Amos Otis and Kirkpatrick, and a two-run double by Cookie Rojas.

At St. Louis, the score was 2-2 when Ted Simmons broke the deadlock with a run-scoring single in the third inning. The Cards got another run in the fourth on scratch singles by Joe Hague and Ted Sizemore and a walk to Julian Javier.

The Cubs scored their runs in the third on two singles along with a pair of doubles by Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert. Then Carlton settled down and shut out the visitors the rest of the way.

Mike Hedlund will pitch for the Royals tonight at Chicago against Wilbur Wood, White Sox left-handed knuckleballer.

The Cubs will send Ken Holtzman against Jerry Reuss of the Cardinals at 8 p.m.

Carlton Sharp In Cub Outing

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Things are going so well for Steve Carlton the St. Louis Cardinals left-hander finds it hard to believe 1970 ever happened.

Carlton, frustrated by a 10-19 record last year, notched a 4-2 triumph Tuesday night over the Chicago Cubs for his eighth victory against only two losses in 1971.

After Ron Santo singled with two out in the third, Carlton retired 17 of 19 batters facing him, the other two gaining bases on balls.

In registering his second straight complete game the 6-5 fastball artist delivered 116 pitches, a low for him in the majors that included only 62 over the last six innings.

Carlton struck out five and walked three.

"They were hot enough out there the first few innings. I was getting the fast ball high, but I got a little more consistent along about the sixth or seventh inning," said the 26-year-old hurler.

Carlton was tagged for four Cubs hits during a two-run third, but was helped out of the scrape as Jim Hickman was cut down trying to stretch a single.

Then, after Santo's harmless hit, only Chris Cannizzaro and Santo were to reach base on walks.

"This is more like '67 or '68," said Carlton, whose memory harkened to pennant seasons early in his Cardinal career.

"It seems like everything that went wrong last year has just been turned around," he added.

The Cardinals, who remained half a game off the New York Mets' leading pace in the National League's East Division, scratched for their runs after Don Kessinger scored on an error and Glenn Beckert on Hickman's single.

Rozelle Attacks Pro Grid Betting

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League has his guard up against any attempt to legalize betting on pro football—a decisive stance he first took when a teen-aged gambler belted him in the chops.

Provoked by the possibility of an extension of New York's Off-Track Betting venture to include professional team sports, Rozelle said Tuesday that such attempts would create a "chaotic situation" by undermining "the sport's backbone—integrity."

And he used the belt in the chops to illustrate the danger in the situation.

Recalling a game early in his commissionership that he attended at New York's Yankee Stadium, Rozelle remembers two teen-agers slipping in behind him in the two empty seats in his box during the first quarter of a Giants' game.

"Since the two seats weren't being used I let the kids sit there," Rozelle explained. "It was obvious they had $5 bets on the game because by the second quarter I kept hearing things like 'the game's a fix' and 'Tittle's going in the tank.'

"So I turned around and told them I didn't mind them sitting in the seats, but to knock it off. And they kept quiet during the third and fourth quarters. But as soon as the gun sounded ending the game, I felt a tap on my shoulder.

"I turned around—and that's when I got a belt in the chops."

Rozelle used that story to emphasize that permitting bets on games "changes the character of the fan—rather than an interest in how his team does he now has a financial interest in the outcome. We could be badly hurt. And so we're deeply concerned."

Phil Rogers Fires a 69

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Phil Rogers of La Jolla, Calif., put together a 69 and a blistering 63 for a 36-hole total of 132 for the lowest score Tuesday in the windup of local qualifying competition for the U.S. Open Golf Championship next month.

Rogers, playing in Memphis, Tenn., got his two-under-par 69 over the par 71 Galloway Park course of 5,962 yards. His seven-under-par 63 came over the 6,315-yard layout of the Audubon Park Course.

Dick Carmody of Long Beach, Calif., was runnerup to Rogers with a 68-66-134.

Johnny Mahaffey, former U. of Houston golfer who recently turned pro, shot rounds of 68-68 for a six-under-par 136 to lead the qualifiers in Houston. Bruce Lietzke, a Houston sophomore from Beaumont, was second at 138.

The play of Rogers and Carmody overshadowed the 67-70—137 turned in by Bill Lytle of San Jose, Calif., to lead the qualifiers at the Silverado Country Club in San Francisco.

Jay Conner, a 14-year-old student at Shasta High School in Redding, Calif., shot a 73-75—148 and was among the qualifiers at San Francisco.

Rick Spears, an amateur from Port Jarvis, N.Y., and Rex Baxter, a Cleveland pro, each posted a 142 to lead the competition at Eastchester, N.Y., and Cleveland, respectively.

John Kennedy of Edgemont, Pa., led the qualifiers from the greater Philadelphia area with a 141.

Veteran pro, E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., led 23 qualifiers in St. Louis with a three-over-par 145 at the Glen Echo Country Club.

Otto Greiner of Tenafly, N.J. and Jay Morelli of Belle Meade, N.J., tied at 146 to lead the qualifiers at Haworth, N.J.

Spears, a 24-year-old former star at the University of Florida, posted rounds of 71-71 for his one-over-par 142 at Eastchester. Baxter's 71-71—142 was two-under-par at the Acacia Country Club in Cleveland.

Spears led 15 qualifiers from a field of 83 at Leewood Golf Club and Lake Isle Country Club in Eastchester. He scored by one stroke over Bill Collins, Purchase, N.Y., who had a 71-71—143.

Jim Keim, an amateur from Erie, Pa., was runnerup to Baxter at Cleveland with a 73-73—146. The play at the Beechmont Country Club was interrupted by thunderstorms Monday and completed Tuesday.

Tuesday's qualifiers now will compete with Monday's qualifiers in the sectional qualifying at 13 locations Monday and Tuesday, June 7-8.

The sectionals will determine the field for the U.S. championship tourney at the Merion Golf Club in Philadelphia June 17-20.

NY Trades Bob Nevin To Stars

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Right winger Bob Nevin was headed today from the New York Rangers to the Minnesota North Stars, who squeezed by the National Hockey League's midnight trading deadline with their third deal in four days.

In return for the 33-year-old Ranger captain, the North Stars will deliver a Minnesota player to be named at the conclusion of the NHL draft early next month at Montreal.

"I've been trying to deal for a right winger ever since Christmas," said Wren Blair, North Star general manager, "and am awfully happy to land a big and strong forward who comes back just as hard as he goes down the ice."

The 6-foot, 190-pound Nevin scored 21 goals and 25 assists for the Rangers, who like the North Stars advanced into the Stanley Cup quarter-finals this spring before bowing out.

Nevin, who has scored 227 goals and 395 assists in 12 NHL seasons with Toronto and New York, added five goals and three assists in the playoffs against Chicago and Toronto.

The North Stars traded minor league centers Walt McKechnie and Joey Johnston to California Saturday for fiery center Dennis Hextall.

ADCO Blanks S-M In Jr. Babe Ruth

Senators Win Again With Joy Foy's Hit

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Foy used to have his problems with a manager named Williams in Boston. Now it's the Red Sox who are having trouble in Boston with Foy and a manager named Williams.

Foy lashed out four hits Tuesday night and singled home the winning run in the 11th inning to give the Washington Senators a 6-5 triumph over his former team. His error in the eighth had set up Boston's tying run.

It was Washington's second victory in a row over the Red Sox, with Foy collecting seven hits in nine at-bats and raising his average from .204 to .246. He's batting .571 against the Red Sox this season.

In other American League action, Oakland beat California 7-5 in 13 innings, Detroit whipped the New York Yankees 7-4, Minnesota downed Milwaukee 8-5 and Kansas City trounced the Chicago White Sox 8-3. Cleveland was rained out at Baltimore with the Orioles leading 2-1 in the second inning.

Three years ago, after a series of run-ins with manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox, Foy was dealt off to Kansas City. He subsequently wound up with the New York Mets and Washington drafted him off the Mets' minor league roster last winter.

Now Foy can't say enough about his current manager, former Boston great Ted Williams.

Foy's game-winning hit followed walks to Toby Harrah, Tim Cullen and Del Unser. Earlier, the Senators took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, with Frank Howard drilling a bases-loaded single. Reggie Smith hit a solo homer for Boston in the third as the Red Sox battled back.

Foy's old boss, Dick Williams, also had a happy evening. Dave Duncan's second home run of the game tied the score with two out in the ninth inning and Williams' Oakland A's went on to beat the Angels on Reggie Jackson's two-run blast in the 13th.

Dick Green hit a three-run homer for the A's while Ken McMullen and Roger Repoz connected for the Angels.

The red-hot Tigers blew a 3-0 lead but ripped into relievers Lindy McDaniel and Jack Aker for four runs in the seventh and whipped the stumbling Yankees, who have dropped nine of their last 11 games. The Tigers have won seven straight.

Singles by Al Kaline, Jim Northrup and Norm Cash tied the score, the go-ahead run scored on a fielder's choice and Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman added run-scoring singles.

Harmon Killebrew drove in four runs with a homer and double to pace the Twins over the Brewers. Killebrew's two-run double and a three-run homer by George Mitterwald accounted for five runs in the sixth inning as the Twins snapped a 3-all tie.

Mike Hegan, Johnny Briggs and Tommy Harper homered for Milwaukee.

Hill Faces Fine Prior To Memphis Tourney

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill, the sometimes bad boy of the pro golf tour, faced a $500 fine today on the eve of his defense of the title in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic.

The oft-fined Hill, center of a number of controversies in recent years, had to pay the fine before he was eligible to play in this tournament that he has won three of the last four years.

"If I didn't do something like that once in a while, I'd go right up the side of the wall," Hill said of his action in the second round of last week's Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

It was those actions—he threw a ball out of a trap and purposely signed an incorrect scorecard—that prompted the disciplinary move by the Tournament Players Division of the PGA.

The action was not announced publicly, but levy of the fine was learned by The Associated Press. Under TPD rules it is classified as a major fine—Hill was assessed only $150 for his much-publicized criticism of the United States Open course a year ago—and often brings other disciplinary action.

The 34-year-old Hill, winner of eight tour titles, remained a strong favorite for the $35,000 first prize in the 72 hole test that begins Thursday on the short little Colonial Country Club course, a 6,466 yard, par 70 layout he has dominated in recent years.

Hill, however, wasn't so certain.

"I'm driving good, but I'm hitting my irons just awful," the slim, intense guy who purposely disqualified himself from last week's event.

Gene Littler, last week's winner and a two-time champ this season, is another major contender in the 150 man field.

Some other top players include Lee Trevino, a threat in most of his last few starts, veteran Miller Barber, always-dangerous Billy Casper and Bob Lunn, the 1968 champ and the only man to beat Hill on this course in the last four years.

Pro golf's so-called Big-Three, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, are skipping the event.

Hamm's, Unitog Split Contests

WARRENSBURG — The Unitog and Hamm's softball teams split a doubleheader Monday night here.

Unitog won the first contest, 3-2, while Hamm's came up with four runs in the top of the seventh to pull out an 11-8 win in the late contest.

Bob Sevier was the winning pitcher in the second contest.

Hamm's will return to Houstonia for a home twinbill Thursday night against Ditzfeld Transfer. June 3, Hamm's will meet O'Connors Chevrolet at Housel Park in another doubleheader.

Burger-Chef And Kiwanis Get Wins

Kiwanis and Burger-Chef posted wins in Tuesday's Little League majors games in the American League.

Kiwanis won over Moose, 6-2, with Todd Lenz getting the victory; Burger-Chef dropped Midwest Tree Service, 18-2, in the other Centennial Park contest.

Paula Sperber Wins Women's Keg Event

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Paula Sperber, mini-skirted 20-year-old blonde from Miami, Fla., edged June Lewellyn of Pompano Beach, Fla., 215 to 214 in a position round of the $30,000 Woman's U.S. Open bowling tournament Tuesday night to win the $4,000 first prize.

Miss Sperber and Miss Lewellyn matched up in the 23rd game of the 24-game final and Miss Sperber won that one 192-191 to set up the final match.

In Indy Lineup

Simon Replaces Mahler

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — John Mahler, the most publicized rookie driver in Indianapolis, wants it known that he isn't mad at the man who took him out of Saturday's $1 million auto race.

"I didn't have a ride when I came up here and I don't have one now," said the 36-year-old Mahler, of Bettendorf, Iowa. "Yet, it has been the best thing that has happened to me."

Mahler qualified a car owned by Salt Lake City businessman-driver Dick Simon at 170.164 m.p.h. — the fastest four-lap speed ever turned by a first year man at Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He would have started 27th in the field.

But Simon, who had been bumped from the field in his own car, announced Monday that he was taking over Mahler's car for the race and, under the rules, would start it in 33rd, or last position.

Simon, who finished 14th last year in his only Indianapolis 500 start, said contractual obligations with his sponsor, the TraveLodge chain of motels, forced him to remove Mahler.

The episode quickly made Simon the villain and Mahler the hero in a swirling controversy among racing personnel and fans alike. Mahler admitted Tuesday "it made me a somebody after coming here as a nobody."

Simon, an insurance executive in private life, said the TraveLodge people provided him with a backup car—the one Mahler qualified — and that terms of his contract called for him to drive the car if it raced.

"Dick can only be looked on in the role of villian if the people see me as the persecuted," Mahler said.

"I don't want it that way. Actually, I'm indebted to Dick. He gave me a chance to pass my rookie test in the car, and it was only after he qualified his own car that I got the chance to qualify the second car. It is unfortunate that he was bumped from the lineup by a faster car."

A sports car driver since 1959, Mahler said the attention he had gained by being ousted from the world's richest race had opened up the future for him.

Simon and the 33 other drivers who will start the race at 11 a.m. Saturday got their last chance to tour the speedway today when they participated in carburation runs. The tests, to check fuel consumption and tire wear, were to begin at 11 a.m. and last for three hours.

The speedway was to be opened to spectators for the tests—for the first time ever.

Dejected Jim McElreath

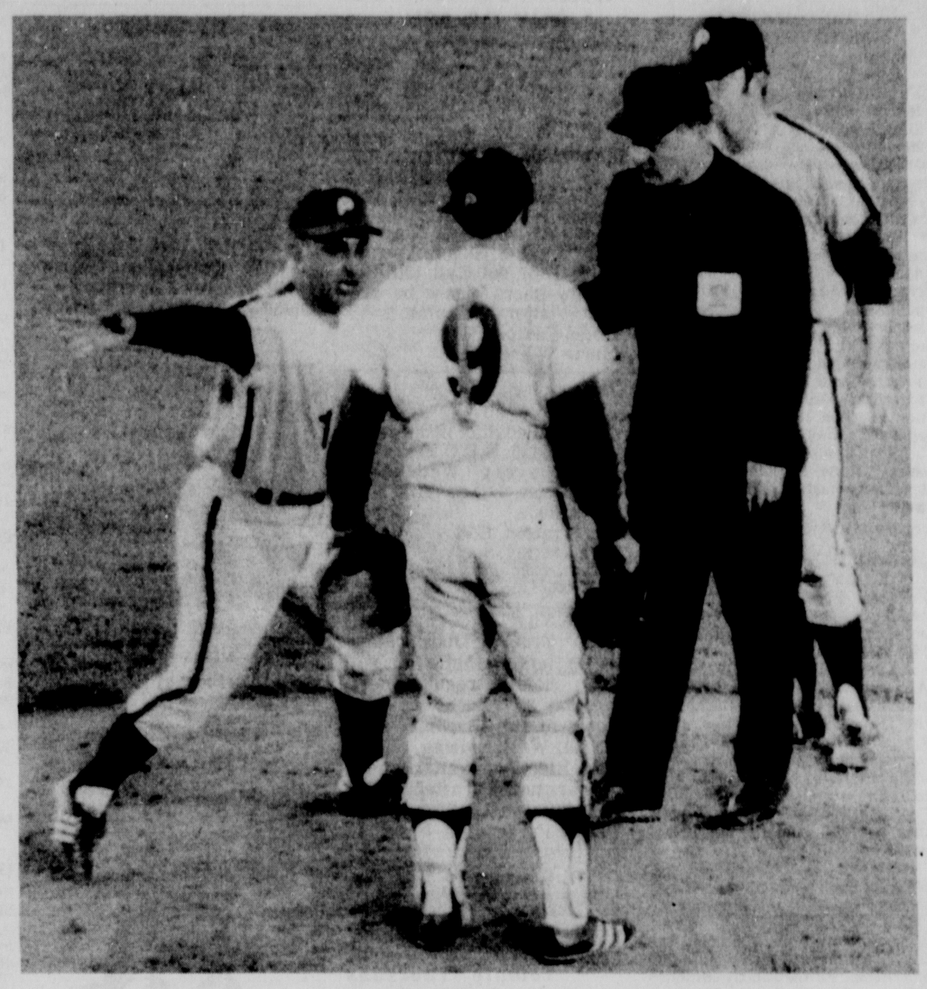

Jim McElreath, winner of last year's inaugural Ontario 500, took a sideline seat at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Tuesday. McElreath, who turned in a qualifying speed of 167.817 miles per hour during the first weekend of time trials for the Indy 500, was bumped completely from the field during last weekend's trials. The slowest qualifying speed for Saturday's annual event is 169.197, set by Bob Harkey. (UPI)

The purpose of the applications is to find out the equipment needs before the season opens.

Words Fly

Second base umpire Shag Crawford is caught in the middle of an argument that broke out between the Philadelphia Phillies and the New York Mets in the fifth inning of play, Tuesday night in New York. Phils' pitcher Ken Reynolds (rear) balked in a run with the bases loaded. The balk scored Jerry Koosman, which tied the game at 4-4. Phils' manager Frank Lucchsi (left) tries to show the umpire what happened, while catcher Mike Ryan listens. New York went on to win, 5-4. (UPI)

Marichal Tosses Giants Past LA

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers helped Willie Mays celebrate his 20 years in the big leagues with a barrage of birthday cakes ... but couldn't cut it against Juan Marichal as usual.

Mays was rewarded with 20 cakes prior to the San Francisco-Los Angeles contest Tuesday night at Dodger Stadium, then Marichal went out and starved the Dodgers on seven hits in a 9-1 Giants romp.

The triumph continued Marichal's spellbinding successes against his Los Angeles cousins. The Dodger-killing dandy has now mastered them 36 times in 49 career decisions.

His mastery is so complete, in fact, that he must endure the scorn of the usually-placid Dodger audience.

Marichal, who pitched a 1-0 beauty against Los Angeles at Candlestock Park on May 15, said he received letters from Dodger fans saying the wind was the only reason he won there.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in 12 innings; the Houston Astros stopped the San Diego Padres 3-2; the Montreal Expos edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2; the St. Louis Cardinals bounced the Chicago Cubs 4-2 and the Cincinnati Reds turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4.

Marichal, who has a history of pitching his best against the Dodger aces, beat Bill Singer for the second time in two weeks.

Bullet Bill, blasted out by a six-run sixth inning that included a three-run homer by Marichal, is off to the worst start of his career with a 2-9 record.

Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston said he still has no intention of taking him out of the starting rotation despite the statistics.

Bob Aspromonte drilled a Jim Bunning offering into the right field corner to score the winning run for New York in the bottom of the 12th. Donn Clendenon roared home from second base on the two-out single.

Tim Foli reached first on an infield error to open the inning. Tommie Agee walked and was forced at second by Clendenon, as Foli took third. Foli was caught at home on Cleon Jones' grounder to shortstop Larry Bowa, but then Aspromonte delivered the game-winner.

Johnny Edwards brought Houston from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. Clay Kirby had a 2-0 cushion and was working on a one-hitter when John Mayberry singled and rode to third on Norm Miller's double. Edwards then ripped a two-out homer, his first of the year.

Fred Gladding pitched a scoreless ninth inning for Houston, although rapped for a double and infield single, to preserve starter Jack Billingham's first victory since April 18.

Ron Swoboda's bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning scored the winning run for Montreal. Swoboda's walk off Phil Niekro followed passes to Rusty Staub and Bob Bailey and an error by second baseman Felix Millan on Ron Fairly's sharp grounder.

The Expos had tied the game 2-2 on Fairly's run-scoring single in the fifth.

Cincinnati, helped by three Pittsburgh errors, poured seven runs across in the first two innings to beat the Pirates as Ross Grimsley nailed down his first major league victory.

Schools Funding Lacking

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House Appropriations chairman says there is enough money in the offing to give the public schools a full $70 million in extra state aid over the school foundation program.

The Senate Appropriations chairman says it isn't likely but if the money shows up the Senate will be happy to provide the money to the schools.

Both Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, and Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, get the same figures on revenue but they interpret them differently.

Cantrell said collections indicate to him that Comptroller John C. Vaughn will be very close in his estimate that general revenue will add up to $635 million.

Manford said it would fall short by $20 million to $23 million. He accused Cantrell of being arbitrary by refusing to go ahead with other appropriation bills before finding out how much the Senate plans to transfer from general revenue to the state school moneys fund.

Cantrell said the House couldn't work on the other bills until he knew about the transfer — he needed that to get the whole fiscal picture.

Manford said he presumed it was the decline in the economy that held revenues down. But if he finds the Senate is not getting true figures on revenue, he said, "I will do everything possible to expose the situation.

"That is, if there is money available why does the governor continue to withhold 15 per cent of the last quarter's allotments for this fiscal year which amount to between $20 million and $23 million?

"Why does he not authorize payment of $8.4 million to the public schools? Why does he not authorize payment of some $2.7 million for the Division of Mental Health and so on?"

Violations Slapped On Company

AUDUBON, Iowa (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced Tuesday that it had charged the Audubon Auction Co., Inc., with several violations of the Packers and Stockyards Act, including a $219,000 trust fund shortage.

Representatives of the livestock marketing firm have not commented on the USDA action which, specifically charges the firm had fund liabilities of more than $158,000 March 4, 1971, and endangered prompt payment to livestock consignees.

Audubon Auction draws on cattle producers in Iowa and east-central Nebraska for livestock.

The government agency alleged the prompt payment danger was generated by failure to properly maintain trust accounts.

The USDA said the $219,000 shortage in the trust account was discovered last March 4.

Veterans Planning Antiwar Protest

ST. LOUIS (AP) — About 100 veterans from Missouri and Illinois plan to combine a mock military action and a memorial service Monday to express their opposition to the war in Southeast Asia.

Alex Primm IV, regional coordinator for Vietnam Veterans Against the War, said the vets will stage a three hour, mock search-and-destroy mission in Forest Park, beginning at 9 a.m. Monday. They will wear jungle battle dress and carry toy M16 rifles.

After the exercise, the veterans plan to march to downtown St. Louis for a memorial service for war dead, beginning at 3 p.m. at the old St. Louis Cathedral.

Primm said participants in the protest will set up camp in Forest Park Sunday night.

Legalized Gambling Gaining

By JULES LOH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

One of the oldest established permanent floating proposals in the annals of state legislatures is whether to legalize gambling. What's new, today, is the response.

Up to their rectitudes in unmet social and educational needs—and redistricted to boot—most state legislatures seem no longer compelled to reject this perennial temptation with a righteous cry of nay.

Today, on the contrary, debate over state-run lotteries, horse parlors and casinos is open and serious in many statehouses and apparently no more risky with the voters back in River City than the seasonal talk of raising legislative pay. If River City has lost its innocence in the turmoil of America in the 1970s, state legislatures seem ready to take advantage.

"I've given up the fight against gambling," said Earl W. Brydges, majority leader of the New York Senate and a long-time foe of state-run gambling. "I'm looking at it pragmatically now. If we're going to do it, let's go all the way and develop the greatest revenue from the people who can best afford to pay."

Brydges' neighboring state of New Jersey, whose state-run lottery, begun last December, has exceeded its promoters' fondest hopes for raising revenue, also has before its legislature a proposal for a referendum to legalize casino gambling in Atlantic City. If the proposal gets on the ballot, the experts say it probably would pass with ease and inspire efforts to expand gambling to the entire Jersey shore.

In most of the 29 states which permit horse and dog racing, official or unofficial committees are at work studying New York's experience with its new off-track parlors. Other states, including New York, are contemplating increases in the legal number of racing days allowed each year. A pending proposal in New Jersey: 365 days.

As it now stands the parimutuel rakeoff in the 29 states ranges only from about 1 per cent of total state revenue in, for example, Colorado and Nebraska, to about 4 per cent in Rhode Island and Florida.

A check of more than half the states indicates that the most popular proposed source of new revenue is to make parimutuel horse racing legal in the states where it isn't, and the main argument is that home town money is going to the states where it is. Supporters of the measure in Missouri, for instance, are dismayed by all those Missouri license plates in parking lots at Fairmount Park and Cahokia Downs across the border in Illinois.

Apart from the more exotic proposed sources of gambling revenue—a bill in the California Legislature would legalize betting on jai alai games, as is done in Florida, and one in Hawaii envisions parimutuel cockfights—proposals for state lotteries seem to dominate legislative debate, with envious eyes turned toward New Jersey.

When introduced, New Jersey's most hopeful estimate of the lottery's potential was about $10 million a year. After one month, however, $2 million was already in the till and the experts doubled their projected estimate to $20 million—half the amount Nevada nets annually from its 24-hour casinos.

One reason for New Jersey's success is the simplicity of the lottery operation. Fifty-cent tickets, with no forms to fill out, are available everywhere: newsstands, supermarkets, even—well, why not?—the state prison store. They are so accessible that, according to lottery officials, enterprising Pennsylvanians are grabbing them up in great numbers and selling them back home at a profit.

That's small-time racketeering; what most states are worried about is whether big-time mobsters will move in on proposed gambling schemes.

"There is no way you can control legalized gambling without the infiltration of the mob and the Mafia," said Miami Beach Mayor Jay Dermer, whose constituents voted against casino gambling in a referendum last year.

Whether legal gambling—off-track betting, for example—would eliminate illegal bookies also has yet to be discovered in New York, the only state thus far to try it.

Two fiberglass belts . . . today's most preferred tire belt cord plus two plies of polyester cord . . . today's most preferred tire body cord.

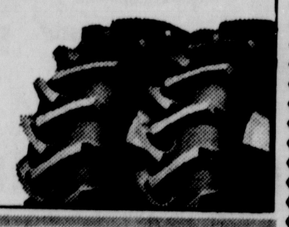

You get 4-plies under the tread for extra strength – that's the Goodyear Polyglas tire. (*4 body plies in size L78-15.)

NEW, LOW PRICED SURE TORQUE

- 3-T nylon cord body construction for maximum strength
- Angle-braced "Zig Zag" lugs are streangthened (the way corrugation strengthens steel) for dependable traction.
- Overlapping flared lugs in center of tread give even-wearing service.
- Tapered, buttressed lugs widen as they wear to lengthen tire life.

Color-Scheming Cottons

Coordinated cotton prints in shades of rich chocolate, licorice, and white set the theme for this distinguished setting. Cotton in a tiny black and brown leaf pattern covers the lower part of the dark wall. The same print with an overlay of white blossoms re-appears on the sofa and in tie-back curtains. Completing the decorative window treatment is a white shade banded in black and brown textured braid. The only color accent is the bitter green sofa pillows. All in easy care cotton.

Advice To Parents On Music Lessons

By AP Newsfeatures

Parents of young or prospective musicians might save dollars and frustrating hours with the following advice from a leading music educator.

Dr. Herman H. Slayman, University of Illinois Professor, educational advisor to the American Music Conference and one of the nation's more innovative music experts, has compiled a list of 10 simple DON'Ts for parents of children between the ages of 3 and 13.

"Playing a musical instrument is a physical, mental and emotional activity," says Dr. Slayman. "It's necessary to keep all these things in mind when seeking to interest children in music—and keep them interested."

Supporting this is the following advice:

DON'T discourage any rhythmic activity. Especially for the pre-schooler, a sense of rhythm is a most important musical asset. Let the child bang pots together or similar type rhythmic activity—as long as he doesn't hurt anybody. He might become a great drummer some day!

DON'T limit the small child to a small instrument and vice versa for the big child. In many cases, size of the instrument is of little importance—especially when it's so easy to adapt many instruments to the body.

DON'T forget to make any necessary adaptations in the instrument for the left-handed child. This simple procedure is often overlooked.

DON'T have your child play a reed instrument (clarinet, oboe, saxophone, bassoon) if he's having orthodontic work done.

DON'T have your child play any wind instrument (brass or woodwind) if he's had any respiratory problems without consulting a physician. Often playing a musical instrument will strengthen the lungs.

DON'T rule out the guitar as a starting instrument. If he wants to play it, let him.

DON'T forbid him to play rock 'n' roll or any other form of contemporary music. If he likes his instrument, he'll soon want to explore all forms of music.

DON'T force a child to perform as a soloist. Putting him under undue pressure often can deter musical progress.

Budget Is Biggest Headache

He Plans Meals for 30,000 Feet

NEW YORK — (NEA) — An unforgettably bad first experience is difficult for most to overcome. Fortunately Hugo Ralli, director of flight service for Pan American Airways, does not hold his sickening first flight against the industry. In fact, he enjoys flying. And he enjoys good food en route no matter what airline he takes.

This is true, he said recently in his Fifth Avenue office with a pleasing view of the Manhattan skyline, despite the fact he was "sick-as-a-dog" on his first flight. This was in a seaplane in India. At the time, he recalls, he wanted to walk home to Europe.

Once safely ensconced on the Continent again Ralli turned his attention to the activities of the family cook who was Scottish. This youthful fascination with the kitchen and pantry still holds. His family felt he would make more money as a stockbroker, but Ralli studied instead at the Lausanne, Switzerland, hotel school.

He explained that he loved the all-round training there which included all service aspects of restaurant and hotel work from table setting to being chef. But after a short time working in Switzerland he decided to try another country.

As he put it, "The Swiss work like dogs. It was a 16-to 17-hour day, six or seven days a week. I decided I needed time for a private life and shopped around for an area that would be stimulating and also give me some free time."

This proved to be in the airlines — his first American service was with Eastern — "I like the challenge of more projects, creative use of convenience foods. The airlines are progressive in approaching foods."

He is one of the youngest men to be in charge of a mammoth airlines feeding operation. He pointed out that last year the San Francisco PanAm frozen food operation prepared 8.5 million entrees. In Tokyo another 2 to 2.5 million portions are made. The San Francisco operation, he added, for those passengers who adore statistics, handled the equivalent of 1,700 head of cattle and 2.5 million chickens.

Beef and chicken are favorites aboard most flights. When planning menus, however, Ralli must contend with the seasoned traveler who is more interested in scheduling and baggage handling than in food.

"A regular airline traveler," he explained, "often feels he has been beefed to death." Yet, the occasional passenger finds the experience of eating on a flight part of the thrill. Since an estimated 20 per cent of the U.S. population has flown once, there remain millions unjaded by all elements of air travel.

Ralli wants these novices to remember a fine meal.

Although many airlines have cut back or eliminated full-course meals on their in-country flights, the international group continue to promote the concept of "better service, better food, better wine."

Ralli, for example, is instrumental in presenting specialty foods of the country of entry. For example, Europeans flying to the United States are sampling typical American food, such as oysters Rockefeller, roast Colorado beef, pan fried mountain river trout, apple pie with Cheddar cheese and good American wines. All this is to disprove the belief that America is not a food country. "We are planning a Thanksgiving gala," Ralli said. "America is a food country if you select regional items."

His biggest headache, Ralli admitted, is keeping the food budget in line, a worry all housewives face. Compared to other airline services, food costs have gone up more than 70 per cent in the last year, Ralli said.

Review Menu

Creating fine foods from around the world with a budget in mind is the job of Hugo Ralli (left) director of PanAm flight service, food and beverage planning. He and head chef Raymond Brubella, who trained at Le Pavillon in New York, discuss shrimp, lobster and melon appetizers.

Convert Old Sheets Into Garment Bags

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Miss S. B. could make garment bags from old sheets to use for storing her leather or suede garments. Make sure these clothes are clean and allow room for them to breathe. I have used this method for years. — MRS. L. T. W.

DEAR GIRLS — A professional pointed out to me that a leather coat is really a fur coat without hair and deserves the same treatment as fur. It should be stored in a cool, dry, dehumidified place. Avoid excessive heat and moisture. When such a coat gets damp or wet, be sure not to dry it near a heat register or other too-hot spot. Wear a scarf around the neck to prevent oils from the skin from rubbing into the leather at the neckline. Also, a paper bag will serve as a good storage cover. — POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — What can I add to dried, thickened nail polish to thin it out so it can be used to the last drop? I have tried adding fresh polish but the too-thick polish still remains "status quo." — E.M.

DEAR POLLY — Many ladies, like myself, are probably having difficulty with the tension of their sewing machines, sometimes due to the light weight of the new spools for thread. I went through my husband's screws, nuts, etc., and found a metal nut about one-fourth-inch thick, set it on top of the spool on the machine and found it added just enough weight to correct my machine tension problem. Try this and you may save the cost of a bill for its adjustment. — MRS. J. F. R.

DEAR POLLY — I have found a use for at least one pair of my torn panty hose. When going on a trip, I start my packing by putting all the underwear I am taking in one of the legs. After I have worn any of it, I put that in the other leg. The result is that my underwear is always easily found, stays neat in my suitcase and the soiled things are separated from the clean ones. — MARY O.

Nixon Coup Is Possible In Foreign Policy Area

By CARL T. ROWAN

WASHINGTON — It is much too early to try to assess the significance of the Soviet-American agreement to try to agree on limiting rival anti-ballistics missile (ABM) systems and certain offensive weapons.

Rowan

Things said to the public here and in Moscow are too vague and contradictory for anyone to become intoxicated by President Nixon's statement that we may be entering "a new era in which all nations will devote more of their energies and their resources not to weapons of war, but to works for peace."

Overstatement, we had better recall, is a modus operandi of an administration in which the President's chief political adviser, one John Mitchell, could refer to an already-forgotten State of the Union address as "the greatest document since the Constitution."

Nevertheless, we ought not let the hyperbole and the Olympian rhetoric obscure the fact that Nixon has moved the country to the brink of some extremely important foreign policy achievements.

Certainly the politicians cannot ignore the fact that if he can bring even a couple of these "triumphs" to fruition within the next 16 months, it will be very difficult for Democrats to prevent his re-election.

Let's look at four areas of major promise and try to assess Mr. Nixon's chances of success.

1. Curbing the arms race. The United States and the Soviet Union, belligerent and afraid, turned the 1960s into the decade of the trillion dollar arms race.

The U.S. alone spent $564,932,000,000 in that area of overkill while the Soviets drained an estimated $466,100,000,000 from a smaller economy—meaning it came from the meat and butter of the Soviet consumer. Yet neither country is any more secure today than it was in 1960.

The bare-bones talk is that an ABM limitation will save American taxpayers $5 billion. The true saving may be closer to $50 billion, because if there is no agreement the cost of this defensive monster may grow to $60 billion for the U.S.

Of no small consequence is the prospect that a corollary of any arms limitation agreement may be a substantial reduction of NATO and Warsaw pact forces in Europe, meaning that we may bring home most of the 300,000 troops we are maintaining in Western Europe.

What this saving from an ABM accord, a limitation of new offensive systems and a reduction in NATO expense can mean in terms of education, cancer, and heart disease research, development of cities, protection of the environment, is almost beyond comprehension—or dreaming about.

2. Peace in the Middle East. The greatest current threat to a meaningful arms agreement between the U.S. and the Soviet Union is the Arab-Israeli conflict. Former President Lyndon B. Johnson recently revealed how close the two super-powers came to direct conflict during the 1967 June war.

The Nixon administration clearly feels that new Arab-Israeli warfare is the greatest threat to peace—and to efforts to end an insanely costly arms race. It would be a colossal achievement if the Nixon administration could work out a Middle East peace agreement.

Previous interventions and Secretary of State William Rogers' recent trip to the area seem to have moved war further away. Whether they have brought peace any closer is another question.

3. Warming up to Red China. With more than 800 million people, or almost a fourth of the world's humans, the People's Republic of China clearly constitutes a diplomatic challenge to the rest of the world.

One of President Nixon's major achievements, so far, is that he has initiated steps that have produced the first signs of a Peking warmup in 22 years.

At the United Nations, and in Southeast Asia, there are powerful barriers to pushing this warmup to the point of formal diplomatic relations and extensive trade ties before November 1972.

Although the moves are hard to foresee, Mr. Nixon may have a plan to produce enough new gestures from both Peking and Washington to enable him to stake out a claim as "the peace-maker."

4. Winding down the Vietnam war. Current developments in Laos suggest that the recent allied invasion there was a flop, both in terms of military achievement and its impact on American public opinion. The Cambodian invasion is nothing Mr. Nixon will want to brag about in 1972.

Still, worrying less about the consequences in Asia as the election approaches, the President may be able to pull enough Americans out of Vietnam by the fall of 1972 to convince millions of voters that he has, in effect, pulled the country out of a mess.

He could achieve this without any Paris peace agreement, which he almost certainly is not going to get. The big question is whether the Communists will let withdrawal go so smoothly that it becomes a political asset to Mr. Nixon.

It is obvious that none of these things will be achieved easily, but is is remarkable that the administration has opened up the possibilities. For reasons of both peace and politics, the administration will surely give highest priority to turning some of these prospects into winners.

Affluent America Is Undernourished

Recent reports on the extent of hunger in America, plus a task force study on the problem in Missouri, have tended to overshadow a fellow traveler that is equally serious — malnutrition.

Most people think of Vietnamese peasants and Southern sharecroppers when they think of malnutrition, if they think of it at all. The true picture is far different.

In 1965 the U.S. Department of Agriculture conducted a study that revealed 47 per cent of families with incomes of $10,000 or more had diets that were nutritionally "poor" or only "fair." Only 50 per cent of all households met recommended allowances of all nutrients.

A recent survey by a leading insurance company shows that the problem is getting worse, not better. Today the average American's diet is less nutritious than it was 10 years ago.

Why should this be so in the most affluent nation in the world?

Malnutrition refers to the consumption of the wrong kinds of food, not amounts. Indeed, it is possible to be overweight—as 25 per cent of all Americans are — and still be undernourished.

Ignorance of nutritional values, then, is central. Too many Americans go busily about stuffing their faces with scant regard to vitamin and mineral contents, the protein value of certain foods and the utter lack of nutritional value in others.

The processed food industry aids and abets this problem to some extent by cranking out an endless variety of irradiated, bleached, reconstituted and generally nutritionless food products. Leading culprits in this area are so-called "snack" foods, which may satisfy the hunger craving but are almost zero in nutritional value.

Eating habits of Americans are in themselves a sight to behold. Lunch for many businessmen, workers and students amounts to little more than a hamburger (often of questionable ingredients) washed down with a soft drink. Breakfast may be nonexistent.

As just one indicator of what's wrong with our diet, look at the consumption figures on milk and other dairy foods, rich in calcium. Today it is estimated that 50 per cent of adolescent girls and 75 per cent of women over 38 get less than two-thirds of the calcium they need daily. Without drinking at least a pint of milk a day, such calcium cannot be obtained.

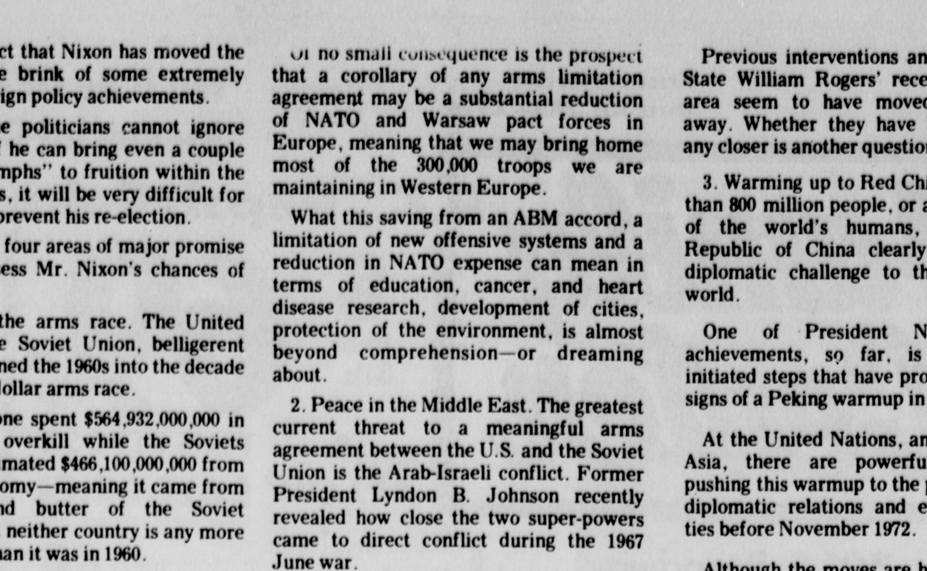

What are the effects of malnutrition? Children and students with less stamina, who are inattentive in school. Employes and executives absent from work due to nutrition-related illnesses, or who do sub-par work on the job. Housewives who drag around all day.

It's everybody's business.

Generals Charged With Drunkenness

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A top Pentagon general and three high-ranking pals were dumped unceremoniously in jail the other day after being busted on public drunkenness charges outside a small-town Tennessee motel at 5:30 in the morning.

The authorities charged that the four warriors not only were in an advanced stage of inebriation but were still nipping when the police arrived.

Although the brass hats protested their innocence vigorously, the police hauled them down to the county sheriff's office, booked them and put them in the pokey.

The indignity of it! Here were Maj. Gen. I. G. Brown, director of the Air National Guard; Brig. Gen. James Hartinger, a bigwig in the North American Air Defense Command, plus a colonel and a captain, all locked up in the same cell.

All four were charged with a violation of the Alcoa, Tenn., city ordinance forbidding public drunkenness and drinking in public. They remained behind bars for about two hours until the sheriff came to work and decided to release them without bail.

General Brown told us he had been in Alcoa to attend the graduation ceremony of an Air Force training school at nearby Taylor-McGhee Air Base.

He acknowledged that two of his friends were drinking beer when the police arrived but denied that any of them were drunk. He said they had just about finished breakfast after several hours of sleep.

The general said that their sobriety had been recognized by the deputy sheriff on duty at the jailhouse and that the deputy had executed an affidavit declaring the general and his companions were not drunk.

General Brown further stated that the charges were fraudulent and that he expected to prove this in court. He added that the jail cell was large enough so that he and his friends were not uncomfortable.

★ ★ ★

The word has come down from the highest Pentagon levels to find the culprits who have been leaking us information on some of the military's most secret (and most embarrassing) adventures.

Investigators have been busy grilling suspects behind the doors of room 3E993 at the Pentagon.

The gumshoes are most concerned about a series of columns we wrote which they believe were based on secret communications intended for the "eyes only" of such bigwigs as President Nixon's foreign policy sage, Henry Kissinger, and the Joint Chiefs' chairman, Adm. Thomas Moorer.

The brass hats are particularly redfaced about our recent report that they have been intercepting South Vietnamese President Thieu's private communications, which are decoded by the National Security Agency and passed on to the White House and other agencies. The messages are identified by code name "Gout."

The U.S. is able to pick them up because South Vietnam uses American-made code machines, and U.S. intelligence experts are familiar with their construction and wiring.

The military brass also are upset over our discovery that Admiral Moorer received a "Flash" message after the abortive Son Tay prisoner rescue mission which said the North Vietnamese prison compound had not been occupied for three months.

The Pentagon would also like to know how we learned that Air Force planes had been seeding the clouds over the Ho Chi Minh trail network to make the monsoon seasons even rainier. This novel means of flooding the enemy supply line is known as operation "Intermediary-Compatriot."

Suspects have also been questioned about our revelation that, long before the invasion of Laos, U.S. Special Forces and South Vietnamese Ranger teams had been making frequent forays into Laos in an operation known by the code name, "Prairie Fire."

Actually, the Pentagon shouldn't be surprised that some secrets are getting out. For some of the officials have become extremely sloppy about security.

Although he vigorously denied it, insiders say Paul Kearney, assistant to Joint Chiefs' Chairman Moorer, has sometimes phoned the Defense Intelligence Agency communications center on unsecured phone lines and had top-secret information read to him.

Men on duty in the communications center have reminded him that he was using an unsecured line. But he has dismissed their warnings, say insiders, with such comments as "We aren't worried about that."

Also, admirals and generals receive telephone calls at home from the Defense Intelligence Agency when an important secret message has come in for them after hours. Rather than go to the Pentagon, the lazy brass frequently have the sensitive messages read to them.

Another possible source of leaks is the haphazard way in which copies of top-secret messages are finally taken away to be burned. They are put in large, candy-striped bags which may remain in a communications center for weeks until they are filled.

The most sensitive ones are kept in separate bags are "eyes-only." Even these sometimes lie about in places where an unauthorized employe might stop and help himself to a handful of military secrets.

Today's Thoughts

The point is this: He who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully. Each one must do as he has made up his mind, not reluctantly or under compulsion, for God loves a cheerful giver. — II Cor. 9:6, 7.

God has given us two hands — one to receive with and the other to give with. — Billy Graham, evangelist.

National Anthem

"The Star-Spangled Banner," written by Francis Scott Key on Sept. 14, 1814, was officially adopted by Congress as the national anthem in 1931, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Aid 'Bill' Presented By Soviets

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) -- There seems to be mounting evidence a pro-Soviet group had infiltrated key posts in Anwar Sadat's Egyptian government and was getting ready for a take-over.

If this proves so, Sadat is now learning the lesson Yugoslavia's Tito and China's Mao were taught years ago:

Cromley

That when a nation accepts Soviet help, Moscow attempts to infiltrate, take over the government. Even friendly governments. And even Communist regimes.

Russia's fight with Yugoslavia was not over communism, however many party slogans were shouted. Belgrade was and is Communist. The fight was over whether Yugoslavia would be a Soviet economic colony.

Moscow's fight with Mao Tse-tung was not over communism, though there has been a turgid flow of steaming accusations. The battle was over whether Red China would obediently follow Soviet national foreign policies in Southeast Asia.

Russia's fights with Hungary, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia were not over Communist ideology. They were over whether Russia would have control over the economic, military and foreign policies of these countries as they affected Russian national interests.

That is, we are not now talking about Russian communism. We are talking about Russian imperialism, which has nothing to do with ideology.

Communism has become simply a device by which the Soviet Union can get Egyptians, Chinese or other foreign peoples to work for Soviet national interest.

How do you get a man to put a foreign country's aims before those of his own nation, unless you convince him there is a higher ideology? Communist slogans fit this purpose for Russia so long as communism's goals are identified with Moscow's goals, and Russia is identified as the "mother" country.

When a brand of communism develops which does not put Russian interests first, as in Yugoslavia, it is branded as deviationism, regardless of ideological purity.

Study Moscow's moves carefully over the past three decades. International communism was pushed when it served Russia's national purposes. Communist governments were backed and Communist parties aided, when this served Russian needs. But when Communist parties were not useful to Russian national interests, they were disavowed or ignored—even when their local leaders looked to Moscow as Mecca.

Opening lead—See article

By Oswald & James Jacoby

From 1931 to around 1960 any expert pair would have no trouble getting to six hearts with the North-South cards after West opened one club. North would make a game-forcing, two-club cue bid. South would respond three hearts to show some values and North would go the rest of the way.

The average bridge player uses that same bid today and would get to the slam the same way, but some modern experts might have trouble because they use the Michaels cue bid to show majors against a minor-suit opening and not to show a rock-crusher.

Those North players would have to double the opening club bid. Slam should be reached easily provided South was willing to jump to two hearts with his six-card suit and two kings. It might even be reached if South just bid one heart, but we are sure that many charity game players didn't reach slam.

Strangely enough, the slam only makes because West does have an opening bid. Give East the ace of clubs and a club lead toward that ace would send South into the slough of despond when hearts failed to break evenly.

With the actual layout it doesn't matter what West leads. If he opens the ace of clubs South ruffs in dummy, cashes the ace and queen of trumps and leads diamonds. If West leads anything else South must go right after diamonds, although he can afford to cash one or two trumps first.

For Water Projects

Appropriations Are Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Missourians Monday urged that $1,750,000 be appropriated for the Meramec Park Lake in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

President Nixon requested $1,500,000 in his budget for this project but the U.S. Corps of Engineers has indicated it has the capability of handling construction which would cost $1,750,000, they said. The Missouri Department of Conservation has been interested in this project for more than 30 years, Edwin H. Glaser, planning officer, told the House Public Works Appropriations subcommittee. The subcommittee also heard delegations requesting funds for other Missouri projects.

Judge Haysler A. Poague, chairman of the Missouri Water Resources Board, said that $35 million is needed for the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir, first authorized in 1954. The 55,000-acre surface reservoir will "offer a tremendous potential for future development of industrial annd urban usage in an area which has been steadily losing population for the past 50 years," he said.

Rep. William L. Hungate, D-Mo., said only $5,200,000 is budgeted for the Clarence Cannon Dam in 1972 while the Corps of Engineers' capability is $7,400,000.

"The project would provide protection for 27,500 acres of land below the dam site that is now subject to serious yearly flooding," he said.

George W. Lehr, presiding judge of the Jackson County Court, urged appropriation of $6,300,000 for safeguarding of the Little Blue River against floods. Delay in the project, he said, "will leave this area vulnerable to floods which under inflated prices might double or triple the losses incurred in the past," he said.

Richard E. Cochran, vice president of the Little Chariton Drainage District Inc., asked for $350,000 additional construction funds for the Little Chariton Drainage District.

"The severe flooding we experienced during 1970 crop season and the high financial loss to both the farmers along the stream as well as the ensuing economic loss to the entire area has made it imperative that the project be completed as rapidly as possible," he said.

Donald F. Sheridan, vice president of the Mercer County Grand River Improvement Association, urged appropriation of $60,000 to complete planning for the Mercer Reservoir.

Phone Taps Likely By Capital Lobbies

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, said Monday it is likely that lobbyists tap telephones in Washington, D.C.

The fifth district U.S. representative said he thinks lobbyists and pressure groups tap telephones and not the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"I have always thought my phones were tapped, but not by the FBI," Smith said in a television talk show here.

Smith said he has never personally attributed the electronic eavesdropping to the FBI and that he thinks it is much more likely the work of lobbyists and pressure organizations.

He said he thinks few congressional telephones are tapped today because of passage of a strict federal anti-wiretapping law.

No Toll Cutback Under New Law

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The cities of Keokuk and Burlington wouldn't have to reduce tolls on their Missippi River bridges under a rider tacked onto a bill passed by the state Senate Monday.

The amendment by Sen. Wilson Davis, R-Keoku, would permit the cities to assess taxes on the bridges.

Both Burlington and Keokuk have been ordered by Federal Highway Administrator F.C. Turner to reduce tolls on the bridges because tolls are supposed to be charged only to cover bridge maintenance and operation.

Keokuk receives about $50,000 annually from bridge toll profits, while Burlington's general fund receives about $350,000 a year from its bridge.

New Home Construction Increase Noted in City

By ROBERT H. TARBELL
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

New houses in Sedalia are apparently being built at nearly twice the pace this year compared to 1970, according to Woodrow Garrison, city building inspector, who said 40 building permits had been issued so far as opposed to 41 for all of last year.

Doyle Furnell, operator of the Furnell Construction Co., said he did not know why houses were selling better. "I imagine it is possible that lower interest rates have made some impact, but maybe it is due to rumors people hear that indicate houses will be more expensive next year," he said.

Mrs. Judy Letourneau, office manager of Letourneau Brothers Construction Co., said her firm had never built houses at such a pace before. She said the leading factor for buyer interest in new homes now was the lack of good rental property in Sedalia.

"People with a couple of children get tired of looking for a place to rent and then decide that buying a home is a lot easier and more convenient too," she said.

Bill Hall, director of industrial development, also stressed the lack of rental properties in Sedalia. Hall said there were about 100-150 vacancies in rental properties in the city two years ago and now there are five or six.

"Three to five persons come to the Chamber of Commerce office, where the rental vacancies are listed, every day looking for apartments and homes to rent and there are simply not enough," he said.

Hall said that apartment house owners had told him that vacancies in apartments around the city were very infrequent and most of the apartments were occupied. "For the last year and a half, we have had a critical shortage of good rental properties in Sedalia," Hall said.

Paralleling the upsurge in housing starts in Sedalia is the continued strength in the sales of mobile homes. Mrs. Bill Kostis, of Broadway Mobile Homes, said that the firm's sales were up by four or five units a month over last year.

"Our customers tell us that the rent in Sedalia is much too high for the type of apartments and homes offered," Mrs. Kostis said.

Herman Heidt, plant manager of Home Building Corp., said that sales of the company's prefabricated housing units in Sedalia had not been that good. "We sold four houses here in 1970 and none so far this year," he said. Heidt said the company's efforts had been concentrated on large housing developments in such cities as St. Louis and Columbia.

"A lot of our time this year has been spent with 'Operation Breakthrough' in St. Louis, which was initiated by the Department of Housing and Urban Development earlier this year. HUD said then that it would like to see a boom in factory-built homes to offset the nation-wide housing shortage," Heidt said.

The "Operation Breakthrough" project involves 75 townhouse-type units which are being built by the Sedalia firm.

The improvement in new house construction, however, has not spilled over into commercial construction activity with as much vigor, according to R. D. Dean of the Dean Construction Co. "So far this year the number of projects we have been working on has not been up to expectations. I can't list the number of buildings we have built this year, but in terms of dollar income, 1971 in the long run will be better than 1970," he said.

Dean based his forecast on the fact that the company had several definite commitments for new commercial buildings in the next few months.

Workers in London's House of Commons now carry passes with photographs as a security measure.

Injunction On Festival Is Granted

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A permanent injunction against a proposed rock festival this weekend on abandoned mining ground northwest of Joplin has been granted in Jasper County Circuit Court.

Judge Robert Warden issued the order Tuesday. He also directed sheriff's officers and the Missouri Highway Patrol to keep vehicular and pedestrian traffic away from the site. It was pointed out that people might come from some distance for the festival and not know it had been banned.

Because the site is near the Kansas border, Atty. Gen. Vern Miller of Kansas attended the hearing.

Ben Pyle, county prosecutor, called 21 witnesses, most of them property owners in the area, in support of his petition for the injunction.

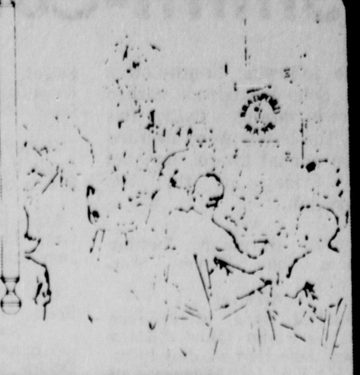

One state witness was Perry Fellwock of Joplin, promoter of the festival.

Fellwock said he now had "no intention of holding the event." Instead of the 2,500 persons he originally thought the festival might draw, Fellwock said "in light of the publicity there might be 15,000 to 25,000...and we don't have the facilities to take care of the kind of crowd we might get."

Sheriff Mickey Owen of Greene County testified that court orders were violated at a festival held last fall in his county even though more than 200 officers were on duty.

There was testimony about a rock festival near Pittsburg, Kan., last fall, about 10 miles from the site proposed by Fellwock.

Simple Operation Cures Weakened Pelvic Floor

By Lawrence Lamb, M. D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you explain a pelvic malformation or weakening of the pelvic floor? Is there such a thing in women? Also, could this contribute to bladder infections? Is there an operation to cure this?

Dear Reader — The bony pelvis is shaped somewhat like the ring and net for the basket in basketball. The top of the ring is called the inlet to the pelvis and is the top of the hip joints. Seated in the basket, so to speak, are the abdominal organs including the lower part of the intestines, the urinary bladder and the reproductive organs.

The lower part of the basket is called the outlet of the pelvis. This bony opening is fairly large in women to permit normal birth. Muscles are stretched aross the outlet portion of the pelvis. They prevent the urinary bladder, the reproductive organs and abdominal contents from dropping through the outlet. These muscles are called the pelvic floor.

If these muscles become stretched too much or torn with childbirth, the floor to the outlet of the pelvis is weakened and indeed the bladder and reproductive organs can lose their normal position. Sometimes the bladder loses its normal function and the disturbance in bladder function sets the stage for an infection to develop as well as cause difficulties in controlling urination.

These problems can usually be corrected by a fairly simple operation which literally takes up the slack in the overstretched muscles and provides normal support to the bottom of the pelvis or the outlet. It has the same effect as putting new webbing on last summer's lawn chairs. In this way the bladder and the reproductive organs are again properly positioned and return to more normal function. This operation is simply called a "pelvic floor repair."

Dear Dr. Lamb — After reading your article, I am concerned. I do not smoke but I do take pills with nicotine in them for my circulation. Are they really harmful? I am 74 years old.

Dear Reader — I am sure you are not taking nicotine pills. You are taking nicotinic acid which is sometimes used in an effort to lower the cholesterol level in the blood. Nicotinic acid is a vitamin group, not the nicotine present in tobacco. In the United States it is called niacin in an effort to avoid confusion. Nicotine is a poison. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Damages Paid In Old Suit

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Farmland Industries, Inc., has paid $420,812 in settlement of a six-year-old suit filed for the Kansas Highway Commission, which charged conspiracy in fixing the price of asphalt.

Farmland was the last of 12 companies to settle with the state. However, another suit on behalf of 74 Kansas counties is pending against Farmland.

Atty. Gen. Vern Miller, announcing the settlement Monday, called it "fair and reasonable" and said it has been approved by Shawnee County District Court.

He said the settlement included some $25,000 to $30,000 in attorneys fees and to his knowledge this is the first settlement in which such fees were included.

Former Atty. Gen. Robert C. Londerholm initiated the case against the 12 companies on behalf of the Highway Commission in 1965, alleging that the firms conspired to fix the price of asphalt sold to the state for road maintenance from Jan. 1, 1959 through Feb. 28, 1965.

Riding Amtrak's Rails Still Has Disadvantages

Editors note: A year ago, the Associated Press sent reporter John S. Lang on a train ride to report on the quality of passenger service. Now he has done it again, to test Amtrak's early performance. Here is his report.

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer

The car stank of sweat and unflushed toilets, and a generation of use with neglect. The lights, those that worked, were dim. The air conditioning, with the inside temperature at 101 degrees, didn't work at all.

The aisle was a noisy tangle of four shirtless little boys, two wet-diapered infants held by their parents, an angry man in a powder blue jump suit and two guys with flashlights jostling their way through.

It looked like a refugee train, but it wasn't.

It was a pullman car on the New Orleans to Los Angeles run of Amtrak, the newly begun National Rail Passenger Corp.

These were the best accommodations Amtrak had to offer the 30-plus passengers who paid for reservations on the 2,000-mile two-day-and-two-night journey.

And, grim as it was, this train was far better than last year when the Southern Pacific Railroad operated it with two coaches lacking head rests and reclining seats—the conductors called them "cattlecars"—and with a vending machine car selling hash at 55 cents a can.

The Amtrak train which left New Orleans on a Friday had two pullmans, a diner-lounge car, three coaches and the automat car.

Still, the accommodations gave scant comfort to those who made this trip. Even a passenger in the second pullman had a roomette with panel doors that rattled and kept popping open, a toilet that flushed only partially and a faucet that leaked into the shelf below. Yet he was lucky: his car was air conditioned.

Not so fortunate were Drs. Harley Schear, of San Francisco and Chuck Harlin of Los Angeles.

The air conditioning in their pullman functioned poorly from the start, failed entirely as the train neared El Paso and remained out the rest of the way to Los Angeles, a 40-hour trip.

To escape the stench and the heat, they retreated to the diner to slake their thirst and determine the exact temperature.

Four cars back, Conductor C. W. Maxwell was doing something about it. He was filling out a report.

"What shall I say?" he asked brakeman T. J. Barnes. "That Car 15 is out of air conditioning and we passengers are threatening to kill the conductor?"

"If they don't upgrade this equipment," replied Barnes, "they're going to have real problems this summer."

The car giving them trouble, they said was 30 years old. Most of the other cars were the same age, or older, dating from the days when the train was proudly named the Sunset Limited.

These aged cars are typical of the equipment Amtrak inherited from the railroads, which long ago decided that passenger trains were an economic albatross and that their future was in shipping freight.

With a congressional appropriation of $40 million plus government guaranteed loans of $300 million, Amtrak claimed little money to refurbish equipment, and said it will funnel its funds into certain high-priority routes still to be selected.

Aboard the old Sunset, the conductor griped that the air conditioning had failed on the trip when he had the most passengers in one pullman since the line resumed running sleeping cars. Pullmans and the diner were dropped five years ago by the Southern Pacific, but restored last October when the Interstate Commerce Commission allowed the line to reduce daily service to three times a week.

The conductor said there are about 200 persons riding this train, about the same number which patronized the Sunset under Southern Pacific management.

But he said nearly half the Southern Pacific's riders were on free passes, and Amtrak has stopped this practice.

"This means ticket sales are up about 40 per cent."

That estimate was later confirmed by the ticket agent in Los Angeles and the Amtrak spokesman in Washington.

By 9 p.m., seven hours after the air conditioning quit, all the passengers had been driven from the hot pullman.

At Phoenix, a well-dressed middle-aged couple and a woman and her aged mother were waiting, with reservations, to claim suites in the air conditioned pullman.

"Got no space," mumbled the porter, refusing to let them board.

The conductor explained irritably, that ticket agents in Lordsburg, N.M., gave the rooms to passengers booked in the hot car.

"That's a hell of a way to start out with Amtrak," said the man.

"We held our tickets two weeks." The couple walked away.

The woman and her old mother insisted on boarding the train, and the conductor finally gave them two roomettes—by displacing Schears and Harlin.

A problem with Amtrak, noted by critics in Congress, is that Amtrak holds the license but the trains are actually operated by the railroads. The train crews are still employes of the individual lines. "We're the last to know anything Amtrak does," groused the conductor of the El Paso-to-Tucson stretch of the trip.

Until the train reached El Paso, where the railroad began trying to fix the air conditioning, the train had been early at nearly every stop—by 30 minutes on two occasions.

A brakeman explained, "You can go in early but you gotta leave on schedule. We've got such a slow schedule it's easy to get ahead. They've dropped quite a few stops."

"Logically then," said a passenger, "Amtrak will speed up the schedule."

"That's assuming a great deal," said the brakeman, "that a train will be run logically."

The train reached Los Angeles just after 8 a.m. Sunday, 32 minutes late.

Passengers lined up at the ticket window to demand rebates.

"It was the worst trip I ever had and I heard it was going to be the best because of Amtrak," said a woman. "I couldn't use the bedroom because the generator was out. Give me my money back."

The ticket agent listened sympathetically, and agreed, "Yes, it's inexcusable." He gave the woman a $61.70 rebate, and promised adjustments to the others.

"We're terribly sorry," the agent told them.

"We've only been operating under Amtrak 16 days. It will take a little time. We're getting better all the time."

The next train for New Orleans left Los Angeles at 10 that night. It got to Tucson where it was halted and sidetracked for two days because of the nationwide rail strike.

Each passenger was provided transportation to his destination—on a bus.

Julie's Job Isn't Big Thrill

ATLANTIC BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The small-fry at Atlantic Beach Elementary School took it in stride Monday when they heard Julie Nixon Eisenhower was going to be one of their teachers next year.

"I bet she won't holler like the other teachers do," said Shelley Heise after learning the President's daughter would teach at the school.

"None of them holler in the beginning," observed Bo Johnson. "They all start out nice and get meaner and meaner."

Mrs. Eisenhower will teach a fourth grade class of about 30 pupils starting Sept. 8. Her husband, David, will be stationed at Mayport Naval Station about two miles from this oceanfront town of 6,775 in Northwest Florida.

Principal Sam Bailey said he believes the excitement of having President Nixon's daughter as a teacher will die down between the time preplanning begins Aug. 28 and the start of classes.

"I hope the school will not be a goldfish bowl," he said.

The school is four blocks from where the Eisenhowers have rented an apartment.

Dr. Cecil Hardesty, the school superintendent, learned Julie would be in this area and was interested in teaching so he asked her if she wanted a job.

Hardesty knew the Nixon family when he was superintendent of San Diego, Calif., schools and was interested in Republican politics.

Pruitt-Igoe Replacement Is Considered By Romney

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan to demolish the Pruitt-Igoe public housing project in St. Louis has spawned a vision of $60,000 townhouses for the dislodged poor.

A proposal to raze the still unpaid for but largely abandoned project in the heart of St. Louis' slums has been sitting since January on the desk of George Romney, Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Hammered out by housing officials and community groups, the plan calls for construction of townhouses for 900 families where Pruitt-Igoe's 15-year-old concrete high rises now stand.

By themselves, the townhouses would cost about $20 million, or about $20,000 per unit.

But demolition of Pruitt-Igoe's 33 slablike buildings—most of them now concrete shells stripped and smashed by vandals—means the government would have to write off $31 million in outstanding construction bonds. It would also have to pay $3.5 million for the demolition job.

The arithmetic adds up to a per unit cost for the townhouses of $60,000.

"I think there are other alternatives that ought to be explored," said Romney May 14 while on a personal tour of the project, long considered by housing specialists as the nation's worst example of public housing.

The secretary, said by aides to be wary of creating a precedent that could trigger demolition plans in other cities, called for a continuing look at the problem by a special review team of federal and local officials.

"The fear is we'd get killed by Congress and the rest of the American people," said one aide. "No one wants to take the rap. Meanwhile, you've got 700 families left right there in the middle of the jungle," in buildings designed to house 2,800 families.

Among congressional opponents of demolition is Rep. Leonore Sullivan, D-Mo., ranking member of the House subcommittee on housing.

Mrs. Sullivan advocates conversion of some of the buildings to other uses, including day care and work training centers. She also has suggested creation of a nursing home as well as public housing for the elderly.

People improve their housing, the St. Louis Congresswoman said, by working their way up the economic ladder. "You just don't get put into $60,000 townhouses."

"There's nothing that can be done to make Pruitt-Igoe a place fit for human beings to live in," said Rep. William Clay, D-Mo., whose district embraces the project. Clay advocates demolition, as does Elmer Hammond, chairman of the Pruitt-Igoe District Community Organization. Cost, he charged is only a factor when poor people are involved.

"They (the government) lay money on this rocket (a Mars' launch) shot down over Cape Kennedy. Now they're talking about laying money on Lockheed."

BLIND JUSTICE

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Three men were sentenced here recently with ironic results.

One, accused of embezzling $100, and the second, accused of murder without malice, drew sentences of two years probation.

The third man, charged with taking "a few dimes and quarters" from a laundryman, drew three years in the penitentiary without probation.

Whiskey Blending Penetrates Orient

By THOMAS A. REEDY
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — A do-it-yourself whisky blending gimmick has penetrated the Iron Curtain and now is on its way to breaching the Bamboo Curtain as well.

John Haffenden, 57, dealer in whisky and wines, said he now is shipping his "master blender's" kits to Yugoslavia where they fan out to Hungary and Bulgaria. He says he has supplied some to interested parties in Tokyo and to British diplomats in Peking.

The kits are made up of four bottles of malt whisky, one of grain, a measuring glass and a token bottle of "Scots Water" from Loch Lomond.

Haffenden got the idea for the home blending device several years ago and introduced it in a pilot scheme in New York.

"That kit was too big and unwieldy so I have cut it down so it's not too heavy for ladies out shopping to carry home," he said.

The smaller kits have been reintroduced in the U.S., selling for $28.

Haffenden has added one more novelty:

"If you hit on a blend that suits you, the idea is to send the formula to us and we'll make up a stock with your own name on the label," he explained. "I admit it is a snob appeal."

The bottles are each 1-10th of a U.S. gallon, the malts are Tomatin, Glenfarclas, MacDuff and Islay and the grain is Invergordon.

Haffenden suggests a 25 per cent blend of each of the first two, 10 per cent of the second two, and 30 per cent grain.

"But everyone has different tastes. There are about 100 different blends you can make."

He's been in the wine trade since he was 16 and has had this idea kicking around for a long time.

"I couldn't afford the research, stockpiling and marketing until recently," he said.

"We now have 8 million gallons of malt and grain to tap from, all 4-years-old," Haffenden said. "That remains constant because we stock new whisky every year and let it age."

The five brands used in the kit, if blended properly, become a brand known as "Highland Silk" which seems to be the favorite behind the Iron Curtain.

"The Yugoslavs drive trucks full of meat once a week to London," Haffenden said. "They unload, scour the trucks out, and take back a thousand cases of Silk. They sometimes order special labels in Russian for gifts. The Japanese now are ordering theirs in Japanese."

He expects by Aug. 1 to have shipped a half million blending kits in one year which represents $1.2 million.
